

Dulles Stings Soviets With Blunt Sarcasm

'Drop Force, End Subversion' Molotov Advised at UN Session

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—State Secretary Dulles told Russia in blunt language today that the way to end the cold war is to stop using force against other countries and to stop supporting subversion.

In a stinging attack on communism, the American secretary declared:

"To bring the cold war to an end, seven points are not needed; this one is sufficient."

He spoke at the United Nations' 10th anniversary meeting, which Wednesday heard Russia's Foreign Minister Molotov propose a seven-point program to liquidate the cold war.

Dulles pulled no punches as he reviewed the role of communism in recent history. He agreed with Molotov that some problems had been settled recently, but said they would have been settled years earlier except for the Communists.

"We do not forget, we dare not forget, that some of those who now hail the recent developments are precisely those who for years sought to stop them."

Dulles strongly defended the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and other regional organizations which Molotov blamed for much of the trouble today. These organizations were based on the spirit of the UN charter, Dulles said, and it was Western strength, backed by these organizations, which had led to the solution of major problems.

Red Boasts Listed, Deflated

Then, in sarcastic language, he took up the problems which Molotov had listed in his speech as having been solved. The Korean War, Dulles said, was ended only after UN forces had repelled Communist aggression.

"It is indeed strange to hear this triumph of collective security now hailed as proof of the peace-loving character of the aggressor and its supporters. If they had had their way, we would today be commemorating the fifth anniversary of the demise of the United Nations."

Dulles said further:

The Indochina fighting was ended by agreement in Geneva, but only after the United States and other free countries had made it clear that continued fighting might call for collective action under the UN charter.

The Austrian treaty should have been signed years ago, but it was delayed while one of its occupying powers exploited Austria's economy for a decade.

Yugoslav-Soviet relations have been improved but they were bad in the first place only because Yugoslavia had broken away from "an alien yoke."

The recent Soviet overtures to West Germany and Japan came only after years of abuse and hostility from Russia.

Then Dulles listed five major problems, which he hinted he would like to see tackled by the "summit" meeting of the Big Four in Geneva next month. He did not list them specifically as agenda items, but he enumerated them as he led into his discussion of the Geneva talks.

They are:

1. Unification of Germany.
2. The problem of the eastern European satellites of Russia.
3. Communist China's use of force and threats of force in Korea, Indochina and Formosa.
4. Efforts of "international communism" to overthrow governments by conspiracy.
5. Disarmament.

Nuclear War Fear Good Omen—Pearson

SAN FRANCISCO (Reuters)—External Affairs Minister Pearson said today he sees hope in the increasing awareness of what would happen in a nuclear war.

Speaking before the 10th anniversary meeting of the United Nations, the Canadian minister said: "One of the most hopeful omens for the years ahead is the fact that we are becoming increasingly aware of where events may carry us in this nuclear age if we do not direct them away from war."

and toward a peace that is more than a symbol for propaganda or an uneasy interlude between fighting.

"The balance of terror has replaced the balance of power and that is not a comfortable or strong or permanent foundation for security. Peace rests uneasily on one, even less easily on two, hydrogen bombs. It is a tragedy of our first 10 years that it has found no better resting place."

MONDAY SWIM MAY BECOME TRIPLE TRY

Three-defeated Bert Thomas is planning his next swim attempt on the Strait of Juan de Fuca Sunday.

He hopes to get away at 10 a.m. but says it will depend on weather.

If conditions are too rugged Sunday, he will try Monday, when Rev. John Donelon, a Catholic priest from Toronto, also plans to try at the strait. Janice White, Toronto girl who talked about trying to swim the strait in April, also says she will swim Monday.

will look elsewhere

Pearson said the free world will continue to seek in defensive regional arrangements the collective security they cannot now find in the United Nations.

"Our unity in this regard cannot be shaken by untrue and unwarranted allegations that such arrangements are aggressive and provocative," he said, adding that he hopes "the need to avoid collective nuclear suicide will help us to remove these fears and misunderstandings which now haunt and harry us."

Pearson said that in the past the "twisting and torturing" of the meaning of words has had a confusing and damaging effect on United Nations.

"Too many good words of respectability—democracy, coexistence, freedom, appeasement, human rights, popular, and above all, peace-loving—have been turned upside down and inside out and made to seem what they are not."

"What we need is a convention for the defence of peace-loving words against verbal aggression...."

Peron to Name New Cabinet

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—President Juan Peron worked on a new cabinet lineup today after telling the Argentine people he is staying in office only because they need him.

Peron's broadcast reviewing the bloody revolt last week came only a few hours after his 16-man cabinet resigned. The presidential press secretary said the ministers wanted to let the president reshuffle the government as he wished.

Veto Threat Halts Grant, Fluoridation

Mayor Wins Day; Issues Shelved

By PETE LOUDON

Victoria's mayor battered down council opposition Thursday, threatened twice to use a veto, and finally won delays on a grant to the Arts Centre and fluoridation of city water.

Council had previously approved the grant and had individually voiced a majority support for fluoridation.

The meeting brought a remark from Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood. "It looks like we have a weak council and a strong mayor."

The mayor struck out at public works chairman W. F. Pinfold and accused him of "bad judgment." He blasted Ald. M. H. Mooney, member of the Union Board of Health, which came out strongly for fluoridation.

"Why try to pretend you know something you don't know?" he asked the alderman. "Youth sometimes rushes off with a wild idea—and you're youth," cried the mayor.

Mayor Harrison chose the medical profession for delivery of his grand slam: "Doctors for years have fooled themselves." Council finally tabled the matter of fluoridation until the Federation of Mayors and Municipalities is approached for all information that can be provided on the pros and cons of the subject.

GRANT BOUNCED

The proposed $3,100 grant to Greater Victoria Arts Centre was bounced back to finance committee until the provincial government can be queried on whether it will undertake to grant the gallery an annual amount equal to operating costs. Both courses of action may result in delays as long as the

IN ALBERTA

Secret Land Swap Charged

DRUMHELLER, Alta. (CP)—Alberta Liberal leader J. Harper Prowse charged Thursday night that Premier Manning made a trade with the provincial government in which he received enough land to drill eight oil wells, rather than five, and leased his land to one of Alberta's major oil concerns.

Mr. Prowse made the charge in a campaign speech before about 250 persons attending a rally in support of Dr. John A. Barclay, Drumheller Liberal candidate. The hall was packed and many persons unable to find standing room were turned away.

"The trade with the government apparently was O.K.," Mr. Prowse said. "The documents mention that it was made free of charge to the premier, but apparently the premier neglected to tell the people of Alberta about this when he related last week all about his farm home."

"The mineral rights were leased to Western Leaseholds Ltd. and how much he got for them, I really don't know."

THREE-LETTER WORDS PUZZLE CROSSWORDERS

Two three-letter words proved the worst sticklers for Times crossworders this week and no one came up with a correct solution.

The composer gives "up" rather than "up" for "it may of course be a hot one" and "sol, not 'sow or 'sod" for "you never seem to see it described as being young."

Full explanation with the new puzzle, now with $200 to a bonus winner, is on page 22.

Funny thing. Th' more Bert loses, th' more I'm convinced he'll make it.

Most o' these folks against fluoridation don't seem 't hv kids runnin' up big dental bills.

'Queen Narcissus' Here

Port Angeles Ferry Off to Cheery Start

Kalakala's First Run to Pt. Angeles Marked by Civic Ceremony, Hi-Jinks

Washington State ferry Kalakala, loaded with tourists, citizens of the town across the strait, Chamber of Commerce officials and civic dignitaries, glided into Victoria at 12:30 today to a tremendous civic welcome.

While over 1,000 Victorians clutched special "first-trip" tickets for the return voyage to Port Angeles, public works minister W. N. Chant greeted the United States contingent and Mayor Claude Harrison presented a plaque to the ship's master, Capt. A. K. Elkum.

LIVELY HI-JINKS

The fireboat Island Comet greeted Kalakala's arrival with lowering fountains of spray and Victoria Girls' Pipe Band performed on dockside.

Two Port Angeles youngsters, costumed as Miss Liberty and Uncle Sam, were prominent among the incoming passengers.

Atoms-for-Peace Exchange Expanded

NEW YORK (UP)—Chairman Lewis L. Strauss announced today that the Atomic Energy Commission has doubled the amount of nuclear fuel it will supply to friendly nations under the atoms-for-peace program from 220 pounds to 440 pounds.

They were Linda Lee Britton, 5, and Charles Drike, 6. Hi-jinks slated for the voyage back to Port Angeles included the costume appearance of courageous swimmer Bert Thomas, who took the part of Old Man Juan de Fuca, and Nona Pearson, Miss Victoria, who was garbed as Neptune's daughter.

TEA AND CRUMPS

The program called for tea and crumpets to be served on the voyage to the music of Victoria's Homeowners and the Victoria Girls' Pipe Band.

The ceremony was arranged in honor of Washington State Ferry Company's action in replacing the Black Ball ferry which discontinued operations from Victoria a month ago.

SCENIC CIRCUIT

The Kalakala and the CPR ferry will share the task of bringing tourists to this area throughout the summer.

H. G. Swenson, WSF administrative assistant, said the firm is also inaugurating a scenic circuit which will include the San Juan Islands, Victoria and the Olympic Peninsula in one trip on a single ticket with fares of $4 for driver and passengers and $10 for cars.

Kalakala arrived here Thursday night from Seattle.

9th Traffic Death

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Vancouver chalked up its ninth traffic fatality of 1955 early today when truck driver Marty Pawlik died in hospital of injuries received in a collision. Liberal leader Arthur Laing and a school boy helped rescue Pawlik, who was trapped under his vehicle.

Officer Shot In Vancouver Police Station

Superintendent Says Detective Tried Suicide

VANCOUVER—Emergency surgery to remove a bullet an inch from his heart was ordered for Det.-Sgt. Len Cuthbert in Vancouver General Hospital this afternoon.

VANCOUVER (CP)—The former head of the Vancouver police gambling squad was critically wounded today in police headquarters today and Superintendent Harry Whelan said Detective Sergeant Len Cuthbert turned the gun on himself.

Cuthbert, who was recently transferred to the detective office, left his office at 8:15 a.m. and entered a small office in the parade room. Seconds later a shot was heard.

Police officers found Cuthbert on the floor, his revolver beside him.

NEAR CHIEF'S OFFICE

The incident occurred two doors from Police Chief Walter Mulligan's office.

Cuthbert shot himself 45 minutes after an interview with Whelan.

"I had an interview with Cuthbert from about 7:10 to 7:30," Whelan said. "Shortly after that he tried to take a bridge-ender. 'He told me I'm sorry I missed my heart.'"

Whelan declined to say what was said in the interview with Cuthbert.

ON VERGE OF BREAKDOWN

Chief Mulligan said Cuthbert "has been in terrible condition the last few weeks."

"He has seemed to be on the verge of a nervous breakdown. However, he has seemed a little better the last couple of days."

Cuthbert, 52, is married and has three children. "The incident occurred only hours after the Vancouver police commission met twice in secret session to discuss administration of the police force in the wake of recent criticism."

Cuthbert was one of a number of senior officers named in a recent issue of the Toronto tabloid Flash criticizing the department. Police Chief Walter Mulligan on Thursday filed a writ of libel against the weekly tabloid, seeking unstated damages.

Boatman Offers New Theory On Tidal Effects in Strait

A man who drifted back and forth across the Strait of Juan de Fuca for two days and three nights in an open boat believes he has the answer for a successful swim.

Harold Phillips, 39, one of four men who in 1946 drifted in a broken-down power boat, today offered what he is "firmly convinced" is a solution.

Phillips' plan stems from his experience in 1946. He found that a "free object" such as the boat in which they drifted charted its own course almost in reverse to what has been employed to date by swimmers, traveling in clockwise fashion.

In example, Phillips said: "One night at about 8 we were about a mile off shore near Victoria. We drifted in a semi-circular course toward Whidby Island on the flood tide. On the ebb tide we were swept down the Washington coast to what I would say was about a mile off Ediz Hook."

Phillips' theory is that the start should be made from the Victoria waterfront with three hours of flood tide still to go. This, he said, will sweep a swimmer about 12 miles almost due easterly to the neighborhood of Hein Bank.

At that point, when the tide turns, the full force of the ebb

Mountie Drug Squad Chief May Be Called To Replace Mulligan

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mayor Fred Hume of Vancouver said today Police Chief Walter Mulligan has not been suspended.

Asked in an interview to comment on reports that Mr. Mulligan had temporarily been relieved of his position, the mayor said:

"This is not so at this time. We shall have a further statement to make within the next few days."

(The Vancouver Sun said it has learned a "wholesale shake-up of the city police department is being discussed" and that Police Chief Walter Mulligan may be suspended.)

(Deputy Police Chief Gordon Ambrose and Superintendent Jack Horton of the criminal investigation branch may also be involved in the changes, the newspaper said.)

RCMP AGREEABLE

(The Sun also said staff sergeant Harold F. Price, chief of the RCMP drug squad at Vancouver, may be appointed acting city chief constable.)

(The Sun added that it is reported the RCMP has agreed to loan Sgt. Price to the city to replace Chief Mulligan for a period of up to two years.)

Mayor Hume said the police commission, which met Thursday night in secret session with Attorney-General Robert Bonner, "discussed everything to do with the police department and suspension was one of the topics." Mr. Hume said that the commission will meet again.

NEW EVIDENCE

"There is new evidence coming in every day from all sides. There will be a report to the public from the police commission within the next two days."

"We are looking for a way out to keep everybody happy and everything efficient. There are lots of good men on our department of whom we are very proud."

"The sooner it is settled the better. We want to find out if everything is above board at the police station. You can't keep shaking up the police department and have efficiency. I have promised the police commission I would not make any further statements."

SECRET SESSIONS

Two hush-hush police commission meetings were held Thursday—one with Attorney-General Bonner in attendance.

The discussion followed two developments:

1. The Senate narcotics investigating committee's criticism of law enforcement in Vancouver, contained in a report made public Thursday.
2. Chief Constable Walter Mulligan's writ of libel against the publishers of the Toronto tabloid Flash.

The Senate committee report said vigorous law enforcement is the answer to Vancouver's drug addict problem.

Chief Mulligan declined to comment on the Senate criticism.

RAFT HEADS FOR SEA

QUEBEC CITY (BUP)—The raft "L'Egare" with three Frenchmen, a Canadian and a small grey cat aboard headed toward the open sea today in a much-delayed bid to conquer the Atlantic Ocean.

previously about and carry him back past Constance Bank. It will not send him to the American shore. Only by getting well up the Strait to Hein Bank can he get the advantage of the ebb tide carrying him toward Dungeness and Port Angeles.

Phillips said a trial of his tidal theory with Bert Thomas last Sunday. Though travelling slightly faster than a swimmer in a rowboat and throttled down power boat, they were within a mile and a half of Dungeness in 7½ hours.

California Swimmer Plans Strait Attempt in August

Another definite challenger for the Strait of Juan de Fuca announced his intentions today.

He is Charles P. Day, 36, of Long Beach, Calif., who will make his attempt the latter part of August.

In a letter to The Times, he said he is confident he can stand the cold water, having done two 20-mile open ocean swims during the last winter, as well as crossing Lake Mead, near Boulder Dam, and the Salton Sea.

"As Juan de Fuca has never been conquered, it offers a tremendous challenge and I sincerely believe I can swim it," he said. His announcement increases to eight the number of persons slated definitely for attempts this summer, with at least three more in prospect.

Others are Father John Donelon of Toronto and Janice White of Toronto, scheduled to start Monday; Bert Capps of San Francisco, due July 18; Mrs. Ann Meraw of Vancouver, now in training for a July attempt; Bert Muir of Sanich, and of course Bert Thomas and Pat Russell, who both plan fresh attempts.

UNDER FIRE from Senate narcotics commission and with major shake-up looming in its top echelons, Vancouver police force, headed by Chief Walter Mulligan (above), also faces probe by efficiency expert Charles S. James, formerly of FBI. James is member of team of experts hired by city council for survey of all major civic departments.

A-G Hints Major Action Contemplated

Attorney-General Robert Bonner strongly indicated today major action will be taken within the next few days in Vancouver's explosive law enforcement situation.

The A-G deftly turned aside reporter's questions concerning his hasty meeting with Vancouver police commission Thursday night, but said he may issue a statement on Monday.

He said he was "most concerned," and when asked to state the object of his concern, replied: "Surely you don't have to ask me the obvious?"

"I am not at liberty to discuss anything concerning the meeting," Mr. Bonner said. He did not deny or confirm reports Chief Walter Mulligan and top police officials have been suspended.

No German Civilians Involved in Brawls With Canadian Troops

(From CP and BUP Dispatches)

No German civilians were involved in two tavern brawls among Canadian soldiers in Germany, Defence Minister Campney said Thursday.

He said he is glad to say that the facts of the two incidents do not bear out the "lurid statements" about them in the German press.

Mr. Campney said that on June 16 three Canadian soldiers were arrested after a brawl with British soldiers in a tavern near Sennelager where the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade has been undergoing field training. Some windows in the tavern were broken.

Nova Scotia Fishermen Hostile

A Maritime lawyer says control over Canada's surrounding seas should extend 12 miles offshore instead of the present three.

George Nowlan (PC-Digby-Annapolis-Kings) said Thursday there is talk among Nova Scotia inshore fishermen of using rifles to defend their fishing grounds against deep-sea trawlers from the United States.

Fisheries Minister Sinclair said the issue of territorial waters is a vexing one which divides countries like Canada possessing rich fisheries and countries poor in sea resources.

He said the historic three-mile limit was originally set as the distance old-fashioned cannon could fire to defend a country's shores. It had no relation to fisheries.

Conservationists agree, he said, that a fish conservation policy limited to three miles is impossible if other nations can come up to that boundary and exploit without any rules and regulations.

In the fisheries debate, Mr. Nowlan, whose constituency borders the Bay of Fundy, said U.S. trawlers come past the three-mile limit, damaging nets and lobster pots of Canada's inshore fishermen.

Mr. Sinclair said the matter has been studied by a United Nations committee. Canada had prepared a report and the whole problem would be discussed at the UN next year.

Meanwhile, Canada has ringed itself with a series of international fisheries agreements aimed at conservation and hoped to add to them with an agree-

Lighter Sockeye Catch Predicted

Sinclair forecast that this year's catch of sockeye salmon on the west coast will be lighter than in 1954.

However, he said that this year's pack of pink salmon will be bigger than last year. He said some sockeye still in storage but has been sold.

Consideration was being given by the works department to construction of a breakwater at San Juan on the outer west coast of Vancouver Island. Earlier, B.C. members had urged that better harbors be built on the British Columbia coast for fishing vessels.

Four-nation conservation of Pacific seals has been so successful that they now are damaging the fishery, Sinclair said. The herd that homes one the Pribilof Islands off Alaska eats twice as much fish in a year as all Canadians eat in a year.

Several years back the herd was cut down to about 150,000 through indiscriminate killing. A conservation treaty among Canada, the United States, Japan and Russia has brought the number up to between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000.

"We now have a problem created by the increase in the number of fur seals," Mr. Sinclair said, "and all four nations say they are doing too much damage to their fisheries."

"This fall the four nations are meeting to review the whole problem and a scientific study is being made to see whether the rate of killing should not be increased to decrease the size of the herd."

Final approval was given Thursday to $2,500-a-year salary increases for federally appointed judges and the government proposed annual increases ranging from $1,500 to $2,500 for members of the transport, tariff and income tax appeal boards.

Prime Minister St. Laurent turned in an expense account for $1,739, after his six-week world tour last year.

The figure was given Thursday in a return tabled for

MACHINERY TAX

'Pay Under Protest' Owners Told

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pay under protest.

That was the official advice issued Thursday to Vancouver property owners who have been assessed for machinery and equipment owned by tenants.

The B.C. Supreme Court ruled Monday that the machinery tax on an owner for a tenant's fixtures is invalid. Vancouver, along with other B.C. municipalities levied the tax on orders from the provincial government.

Tax Collector Harry Watson said property owners should pay the disputed portion of the tax, but submit a letter of protest along with the payment.

Such a letter, he said, would give property owners the right to claim a refund if the court's decision stands.

Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson said in handing down his decision on the machinery tax, levied for the first time this year to increase school revenue, was not provided for under the B.C. Assessment Equalization Act under which it was levied.

However, he said the legislation could be made valid by inserting appropriate legal phrases in the act.

The provincial government has not yet indicated whether it will appeal the court ruling or amend the legislation.

Dominion of Canada Rifle Association badges have been presented to nine cadets in the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps Rainbow.

They are PO W. McKay, who received a special badge; PO D. G. Longmuir, first class; PO E. N. Butler, OD B. Hays, AB R. C. Purden, AB J. S. Elliott, LS S. E. McGowan, AG W. G. Robinson and AB W. Arden, second class.

The Rainbows Corps placed second to Grenville Corps of Kelowna in the winter series competition.

He urged the fisheries department to investigate whether present canning methods can be improved.

Gen. Peakes also expressed uneasiness that dogfish might be used in Canadian fish and chip shops.

He was referring to a statement by fisheries minister Sinclair that a west coast pilot plant to process dogfish into meal will be established. Mr. Sinclair had mentioned that dogfish is used extensively in English fish and chip shops.

"You'd better do a high-class job of salesmanship if you want to introduce dogfish into fish and chip shops on Vancouver Island," Gen. Peakes said.

William Hamilton, PC—Montreal Notre-Dame-de-Grace.

Mr. St. Laurent made the tour in a RCAF aircraft, but no figures were given on the cost of operating the plane. His expenses for the Commonwealth prime ministers conference in London earlier this year were reported as $135.

Smiths Given Tickets For European Holiday

1,100 Crowd VHS To Pay Tribute to Retiring Principal

BY DAVE STOCK
Class of '46

Tickets for a vacation trip to Europe and a big, plush chair to relax in when they get home were the gifts presented Thursday evening to Harry Smith, principal of Victoria High School, and Mrs. Smith.

The gifts came from former students and friends as a means of saying "thanks for a job well done" on the occasion of Mr. Smith's retirement after 41 years at the high school.

Contributions for the surprise presentation had been collected by the Harry Smith Appreciation Committee over the past month.

The committee gave no publicity to its venture—not wanting Mr. Smith to know—but word was circulated from one former student to another and subscriptions were received from all parts of the world.

1,100 ATTEND

Presentation of the travel tickets and chair climaxed an impressive "at home" ceremony for the Smiths Thursday night in the school auditorium.

Close to 1,100 persons were on hand—too many for the hall. Those who could not squeeze into the back stood in the corridor outside.

The hour-long ceremony was a happy one which the audience agreed afterward was "just right." Although most were saddened to think of Harry Smith leaving "his school," they were happy to think of his accomplishments there and anxious to wish him well.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Smith, obviously touched by the deep, underlying feeling of the crowd, entered into the spirit of joviality that prevailed.

Mr. Smith, for his part, acknowledged particular appreciation for an orchid lei, especially flown from Hawaii and presented to Mrs. Smith by Mrs. Jack Tang.

GIFT ORCHID

Mr. Smith confided he recently had been reminded by his wife that during their married life, he had only once given her an orchid... "and that was one I had given to me at a gas station when it was refilled." Allowing himself a serious moment, Mr. Smith said:

"It would be an insensate man whose heart wouldn't be warmed by such an occasion as this."

Modestly he claimed that tributes paid to him belonged to others.

"Other men have labored and we have merely entered into their labors," he said.

He claimed only reflected glory, paying tribute to the staff of the school of which he said "there's none better in the world."

Tribute to Mr. Smith was paid by Dr. Roy Daniells, head of the department of English at UBC, who was a student at Victoria High in 1915.

He explained the reason for the gathering, stating simply: "We are endeavoring to give honor where honor is due." Dr. Daniells recalled his first sight of Harry Smith was one afternoon when the young teacher was instructing some boys how to play soccer. He said it was true to the man's character that he was not standing on the sidelines but "was running with his team."

CONSTANT SYMPATHY

"The initial impression I received as a rather bewildered young student was that this was a man dominated by decency, consistency and integrity. That opinion has remained and been confirmed. And I have discovered, too, he is a man of constant sympathy."

He said it was this sympathy that had inspired Mr. Smith not only to remember names and faces of people he knew "but to understand and remember their ideas, their endeavors and their lives."

He said it was difficult to single out any special trait of Harry Smith since he was a man who allowed himself no excesses. He said this in itself was a credit to the man.

"It is no small feat to have achieved such a balance of character," Dr. Daniells observed.

He likened his subject finally to a ship's gyro and declared: "The steady progress of this school has revolved around the steady, self-contained axis of its principal."

Mrs. Henry Esson Young, a former teacher at the high school, and widow of Dr. Young, who, as minister of education, laid the cornerstone for the building, presented Mr. and Mrs. Smith with their gifts.

Others taking part in the ceremony were Dr. Harold L. Campbell, a Vic High graduate who is now deputy minister of education; Ray Whitehouse, a 1940 graduate, now drama producer for CBU, and Hugh Curtis, a 1950 graduate, now CJVI promotion manager.

Harry Steals Davy's Stuff In Song Switch

The Ballad of Davy Crockett got a real working over by the 1,100 persons who gathered at Victoria High School Thursday night to pay tribute to retiring principal Harry Smith.

Even people who have grown to dislike the constantly-played tune joined in lustily. Reason: It wasn't Davy Crockett they were singing about; it was Harry Smith.

Here are the words as they appeared on the song sheet: Born at Charlottetown in P.E.I.

More of the Same on Drugs?

PRESS REPORTS INDICATE that the Senate's special committee on narcotic addiction favors intensification of existing methods of attack against that evil rather than a radical change in the concept of handling the problem.

Very properly the committee calls for greater severity in punishing convicted peddlers and expresses surprise that a sharper crackdown has not been enforced against traffickers in Vancouver.

It endorses the establishment of provincial treatment clinics and, in one of its most constructive recommendations, urges federal consideration of bursaries or scholarships for training medical, probation and rehabilitation personnel to deal with addicts.

But when its recommendations in the brief form presented by newspapers are studied, they seem to suggest only more of the same policies which have failed in the past.

Specifically the committee is opposed to the free distribution of drugs for addicts. This, it contends, would simply support addiction and be a retrograde step.

That decision appears to repudiate the view frequently expressed in medical circles that a minimum dosage would sustain an addict in a physical condition approaching average health and permit him to apply himself to some useful occupation.

It must be understood, of course, that members of the committee have enjoyed a unique opportunity to probe deeply into the ramifications of the drug evil. They have had the benefit of expert advice from all manner of sources—including addicts themselves.

Perhaps, from these investigations, they may be able to give the public information on questions which have so far been unanswered. When it comes to treatment of addicts; for instance, can committee members give convincing assurance that cures can be effected? If they can, how is it done?

If there is no assurance of a cure, to what ultimate result will treatment lead?

Popular opinion today seems to be that persons once seized with addiction for the rest of their lives, with pitifully few exceptions.

If this is so, will increased penalties prevent peddlers from trafficking? Or will the added risks merely increase the black-market price of drugs and force those who use them into more active crime and vice to raise funds for their supplies?

The report of the committee will be disappointing to many sincere people who had hoped for some more imaginative and hopeful approach to the drug problem—people who have been led to believe that Britain's system of handling the problem would produce favorable results here.

On one point, however, there appears to be grounds for satisfaction. The total number of known addicts in Canada is not much above 3,000, though almost half of them are reportedly in Vancouver. Also gratifying is the statement that the evil has not made any substantial ground among adolescents.

It would be a mistake, however, to discount narcotic addiction merely because it seems to claim few victims. The effects of this scourge are not limited to those who are users of drugs. They spread throughout society, economically in the toll of shoplifters and thieves, morally in the depravity to which some addicts descend to get their supplies.

Harry Smith's Farewell

IN A MEMORABLE ADDRESS TO Victoria Rotary Club last week, retiring high school principal Harry L. Smith spoke of the debt owed by present-day society to the titans of English literature.

From his well-stocked mind, Mr. Smith recited numerous passages from Shakespeare to illustrate that the concepts enunciated were just as valid today as they were when written.

His closing quotation was from "The Tempest":

"Our revels now are ended. These our actors,
As I foretold you, were all spirits
And
Are melted into air, into thin air;
And, like the baseless fabric of this vision,

The cloud-capp'd towers, the Gorgeous palaces,
The solemn temples, the great globe
itself,

Yea, all which it inherit, shall dissolve;

And, like this insubstantial pageant
faded,

Leave not a rack behind. We are such stuff

As dreams are made on, and our little life

Is rounded with a sleep."

Was this Mr. Smith's valedictory to the city he has served so well? It is a characteristically modest passage—and one denied by the remarkable testimony of affection and esteem tendered him by hundreds of ex-students at last night's homecoming party.

Still Unbowed

ONCE AGAIN BERT THOMAS has been forced to give up an attempt to swim the Strait of Juan de Fuca after an effort which has further increased his stature in Victoria's eyes.

Tide defeated the big ex-marine from Tacoma, but his third failure has not taken the edge from his determination to make the crossing.

As he returned to the city yesterday afternoon he was greeted by a crowd so large it brought from him the remark: "Lot of people to come and see a guy who didn't make it."

He must know, however, that the welcome group at Fisherman's Wharf was but a small fraction of a population which honors him for his courage, his persistence and that spirit which refuses to accept defeat. Win, lose or draw Bert Thomas has shown characteristics which have gained him an enviable position in the hearts of our citizens.

The Straight and Narrow

THE VISIT OF PRIME MINISTER Nehru to Moscow appears to have produced little that is new in relations between India and the Soviet. That part of the official discussions made public was contained in a joint declaration issued as the Indian leader was about to depart.

The declaration in part is closely similar to the opinions voiced a day previously at San Francisco by Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov. He had called for a seat for Red China in the United Nations and the surrender of Formosa to Peiping.

The Moscow declaration adds a plea for world disarmament, including conventional weapons. But Russian ideas on this subject have been fully explored on previous occasions. Unless some new proposal is made at the forthcoming meeting of Big Four leaders, it does not appear as though the plea carries more weight than usual. It is in the manner of imposing disarmament, not in the principle itself, that disagreement exists.

The Moscow declaration also reaffirmed the principles enunciated recently by Premier Chou En-Lai. These outline the conditions for co-existence, including promises not to resort to aggression, to refrain from interference in the affairs of neighboring countries, and similar undertakings. These, too, are laudable principles, and will find no objections among the western nations. But doubt as to how far such declarations may be depended on continues to make the West remain wary.

Mr. Nehru's visit to Moscow was in a friendly spirit, and to that extent may have helped to reduce tensions in the international field. But it is well for his undoubtedly sincere efforts on behalf of world peace that the Indian leader is later to visit Vienna, Rome and London. In a world divided sharply into two it is difficult to maintain a perfectly neutral position such as he endeavours to do. His 17-day exchanges with the Russians should therefore be balanced up by similar contacts with Western nations, or the unfortunate result might be that India's altruistic purposes could become suspect in some quarters, on the basis that he who is not with us is against us.

As leader of a great Asian nation and an important power on the sidelines of the cold war, Mr. Nehru's strength lies in maintaining his impartiality. But he walks a very narrow path and it will require all his recognized skill as a statesman to carry out his mission successfully.

Time on Their Hands

'BOY! NO MORE SCHOOL!'

'WOT'LL WE DO?'

Chips

BY DAVID BROCK

AMONG the feeble forms of publicity release we have the well-known actress declaring what type of man she wants for her playmate, checkmate, and (eventually, one supposes) stalemate. These declarations are seldom very interesting, for the excellent reason that her publicity man is usually no more inventive than she is herself.

However, I was mildly staggered the other day when still another Italian actress turned up and was quoted as saying that she didn't want men with either brains or muscles, she wanted them to be more like Attila the Hun.

SINCE she and her agent could hardly be suspected of reading any books about Attila, they probably mean Attila as portrayed in the movies. The movies are not a very sound branch of scholarship. Even Will Cuppy's account of Attila in "The Decline and Fall of Practically Everybody", is a lot closer to the real Attila than any movie could get.

Well, whether this rather pudding-faced actress knew it or not, being married to Attila had one real advantage. He made a point of having three hundred wives at a time. And if he was away for about two months a year on business, this meant each wife saw him only about once a year. That would be a lot worse than not seeing him at all. But it would be 365 times better than seeing him every day. I'd go further than that... because of the cumulative effect of an animal like Attila, I reckon it would be about 36,500 times better than seeing him every day.

SAFE, SANE, SANITARY VACATION

THE newspapers and magazines are now filling up with sane advice for my annual expedition to Holidayland. If I read all these articles I would be sleepless and half-blinded by long reading, and I don't call that any too safe and sane. However, the great thing is that when you have read one of these articles you have read them all. That's something they have in common with The Reader's Digest. I can never tell when I've read an issue of that magazine, it is so much like the other issues. That's probably what it means by "Articles of Lasting Interest"... you keep very familiar with them.

Any time I get frantically and alarmingly broke, instead of just good old plain dull boring broke, I think I'll get a union ticket and join the ranks of men who write articles on safe and sane vacations. Mind you, I won't have my heart in my work. For myself, I require a wild vacation, as a change from a life that is one day going to sick me with its safety and sanity.

I can tell you in private that the holiday for me is not the one that sends me home clear-eyed. Not a bit of it. Right now I have black spots before my eyes. Ideally, a holiday should change these to golden spots, rather than get rid of them. I can get rid of them by staying at home in bed, and what sort of holiday do you call that, for Pete's sake? And for Thomas Cook's sake, too, and Mr. Foster's. I want to come home dizzy.

BUT it would never do to tell the general reader that. He wants to read (or so the editors think) that the finest holiday is a cross between an educational travelogue and life in one of the more melancholy monasteries. With, of course, elements of the hypnotic trance. According to the almost universal belief, the last thing you should do on a holiday is to kick up your heels. Anyone who does this is a bit of a heel himself, and his insurance company resents that. Kicking up the heels imposes an enormous strain on the heart, nerves, eyes, lungs, muscles, brain, and skin. Kicking over the traces is even worse. It injures the toes, which leads to bad posture, which induces faulty digestion, which in turn affects the body chemistry as a whole. It can even bring on a pronounced loss of Positive Thinking, thus costing the country millions of dollars annually.

THE holiday-maker (the articles all agree) should plan carefully, with the help of a pencil and paper, to stay out of the sun, out of the water, off the golf-course and dance-floor, away from steep hills, and so on. At other times of the year he is told to choose between drinking and driving, but on a holiday he should do neither. He should avoid rich or dainty foods, sticking strictly to things like old boiled cod and hard-boiled potatoes. He should avoid spending money; otherwise, he will worry, and it is now known that only cocksureness can keep you fit. (Mr. I find worry is very useful in keeping me thin, but editors don't want to hear about it. But if they don't want me to worry, I wish they'd stop acting like editors. They are one of my chief worries.)

ON THE OTTAWA SCENE

'No Element of Secrecy or Mystery' in the Shift

PROGRESSIVE Conservative members of Parliament apparently had second thoughts over making a political campaign out of the retirement of Lt. Gen. Simonds as chief of the general staff. The promised bitter debate never materialized. Defense Minister Campney made a short frank statement explaining that Gen. Simonds had served his full term and had agreed to step out to make way for the promotion of other officers. There was no element of secrecy or mystery surrounding the change in the general staff he assured the Opposition. And that was that.

COINCIDENCE

It may have been only coincidence but the day before the debate began on the defense department's estimates one of Mr. Drew's favorite Conservative publications, the Ottawa Journal, carried an editorial dealing with the retirement of Gen. Simonds. It said emphatically that it would be a "harmful mistake" to make a political issue out of the retirement. It expressed doubt over the wisdom of holding even a young general for a second term. It dismissed the suggestion that Gen. Simonds should automatically become chairman of the joint chiefs of staff. These points were all raised in public statements prior to the debate, by Mr. Drew and his colleagues. Obviously the Opposition took the hint and decided to drop the subject.

CAUSTIC

The defense minister did not let the change in Opposition tactics go unrecorded. He thanked the Opposition Leader for being so "mild and generous" in his speech during the debate after all the "fury and dust" Mr. Drew had stirred up earlier when the general staff changes were first announced. Concluded Mr. Campney: "I suspect the Opposition Leader started out to ride a political horse and fell off or possibly was pulled off."

PEA SOUP

The saga of the First World War Canadian general from the west coast who gave his men cold pea soup before an attack, while others were issued hot rum, was recalled with sorrow in the Commons last week. Bill Herridge, the CCF'er from Kootenay West, during the defense debate, said he was prejudiced against generals because of that unfortunate experience, during an infantry attack on the Somme in 1916. Elmer Philpott, Liberal from Vancouver South, laughingly interjected, "He was getting you fellows into an indignant frame of mind for the attack." Snapped back Mr. Herridge, "We got so indignant we almost marched backwards instead of forward."

SURPRISE

It came as a pleasant surprise to the Government when the debate preceding the defense estimates survived for only a day and a half. Pessimists on the Government side had gloomily forecast that argument over defense policy, judging by the discussions that developed when Mr. Claxton was minister, could be expected

As Our Readers See It

COMING-OF-AGE BIRTHDAY

Every native son and daughter of British Columbia should at once load their bullets, so to speak, and be ready to shoot to kill any suggestion to keep the 100th anniversary in 1958.

According to native sons who know best, and those who know the history of British Columbia, the 100th birthday of our British Columbia won't be until November the 19th, 1966. Why should we celebrate the birthday before she has come of age? It is not only absurd, but it is unfair to all British Columbians born on this Island and province of B.C.

I myself, if I had been alive then, would never have stood for Vancouver Island ever joining the rest of the province at all. She should have been distinctly a colony-by-her-sweet-little-self. The time to have fought that was in those early days instead of letting the others over-rule. Now history is repeating the fight again, and I don't doubt there was one.

CRACKDOWN

On the front page (19) of the 2nd section of June 16th issue of "your valuable paper," I note the caption "Highway deaths bring crackdown" and giving details that 42 persons lost their lives on B.C.'s highways between January 1 and April 30 this year.

Can we, as good citizens, continue to accept this terrible loss of life, invariably younger people, in the full scope of life's potentialities, not even to mention the huge loss from accidents?

It may only reach less than one per cent of those using the highways, but it seems to me the 99 per cent who know how to drive safely and sanely will have to suffer restriction on their speed because this small percentage do not know how to handle this speed and power.

The Federal authorities are the final authority to clamp down on this excess and so make our highways and streets safer for all citizens to use.

Our duty then is to prod them into action.

WASTEFUL FLUORIDATION

Mrs. Mulholland makes a useful suggestion in your issue of the 20th inst.

In fact the suggestion that those parents who wish their children to get fluorides into their systems buy such fluorides in solution in a drug store, may be considered doubly useful.

1. Those who do not wish to risk their health with fluorides, would not be forced to as would be the case if the whole of the water supplied were so treated. Fluorides are classed as poisons, and there are as yet no long term statistics as to how health would be affected, and whether an irritant taken over a number of years might not cause cancer of the stomach or have other serious effects such as arterio sclerosis etc.

2. It seems wasteful to fluoridate the whole of the water supply for Greater

Victoria, which is approximately 15,000,000 gallons per day. With about 11,500 people using that water supply and allowing 1½ gallons per person per day for water used in cooking and drinks only 172,500 gallons would be used for human nourishment. The other approximately 14½ million gallons are used otherwise than for human consumption (dish-washing, laundry, toilets, baths, garden sprinkling, car washing, industrial uses etc.).

Thus for every gallon imbibed to harden children's teeth and old people's arteries, there would be over 85 gallons needlessly fluoridated with perhaps harmful results to plumbing pipes and garden vegetation.

Parents can do something for their children's teeth by seeing that they have less candies and acid fruit juices, which attack the enamel of the teeth.

ANTI-EXPERIMENT

FLUORIDATE POP
A word from a prospective user of Victoria's water.

I see by tonight's paper (June 17 issue) that certain of the people's elected representatives are suggesting that the milk be fluoridated for the protection of our children. Now, sir, being a farmer and knowing the condition in which our city children receive their milk now—namely pasteurized—it's little wonder that they drink it as is, let alone with the addition of any more corruption.

I would suggest that they fluoridate the soda pop, that is consumed in such great quantities and leave God's natural products alone for those who wish it so.

FREEDOM TO THINK

Those of your readers who now and then have the opportunity to express their thoughts on the subject and the many others who agree with them in the main, will have read with satisfaction what Dr. Brock Chisholm had to say at the Peace Forum at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel last Sunday night in New York.

This "freedom" is surely of the most importance; there are only a few privileged ones who whenever they want to, can bring their thoughts in print before the public, but anybody who is not befuddled by the propagandists of an outworn faith, who has faith in his fellow-men and self instead, can learn to use this freedom.

Dr. Chisholm's advocacy of dropping those outworn faiths is on a line with what "Veritas" says in his letter, "Bombs and Churches," in that same issue. It certainly is an outrage that the Roman Catholic Church in the Argentine went to this extreme. Most of us may not like what dictator Peron has done in the past, but he was certainly right in cracking down on the arrogance of the church there; it may show your correspondent "Old Timer" how wrong he is when he said that there is no domination of the Church!

"DON'T YOU WANT TO SEE THE REST OF MY HOUSE, DENNIS?"

to continue well into this week. But the Opposition suddenly folded up and the House got down to considering the estimates item by item much earlier than expected. A clue to the reason for this is probably to be found in Mr. Campney's approach, compared with that of his predecessor, Mr. Claxton. The latter antagonized the Opposition and aroused debate where none had been expected. The present minister has the happy faculty of reassuring the House. His soothing syrup succeeded beyond all expectations.

HEATED SESSION

Ottawa can get very warm in the summer with the temperature hovering around the 90's and the humidity so high that government offices close early to allow the civil servants to escape the heat. The sweltering temperatures also have the effect of persuading members of Parliament that it is time they left the capital. Consequently it is expected that the present session will close up shop by July 9. The Government may have to drop some legislation, now on the order paper, in order to bring the session to an end.

MORALE

Air Vice-Marshal John Plant's suggestion that the government abolish the army and turn the money saved over to the air force, has aroused bitter and vigorous debate behind the scenes where members of the two services mingle. The remark was later reported to have been in jest, but it has been taken seriously by the army. Coming at a time when the government was preparing to announce the appointment of a top air force officer to the civilian post of deputy defense minister, it has aroused resentment among the boys in khaki. That was the reason Defense Minister Campney went out of his way in his statement to the House to describe the suggestion as "arrant nonsense." He stressed that the need for ground forces would be "continuing and urgent" in the foreseeable future.

TECHNICAL

Decision of the RCAF to take another look at its plans to equip auxiliary squadrons with the CF-100, was a major policy change that was quietly slipped into its speech by Defense Minister Campney. It has been found that the highly technical complex long range interceptors required too many hours of training to produce week-end pilots proficient in handling the intricate aircraft. This represents a major policy change because for years the defense department has declared that the auxiliary squadrons could be counted on to take their place beside the regular units to augment Canada's interceptor force in the event of attack. The minister had hoped to be able to outline the new role for the auxiliary squadrons but no firm decisions had been made up to the time he spoke.

WARNING

The Senate Finance Committee has sounded the warning that the federal and provincial governments are spending beyond their means at a rate which could lead to "ruinous inflation." The committee headed by Sen. T. A. Crevier, expressed alarm at the mounting pressure on governments to increase their expenditures and it urged greater economy.

Home Again

(This is the last of a series of articles on Canadian Pacific Airlines' inaugural polar flight to Amsterdam.)

WE took off from Schiphol airport one Saturday night at 11 o'clock, bulging with good Dutch food (they served us strawberries big as golf balls, embedded in thick cream) and the peace offerings of Paris—perfumes, chic gloves and other bits of frou-frou.

By 8 o'clock the next morning, after a little adjustment of watches, we were winging over northern Saskatchewan; the ice mosaics of Baffin Island had given way to the familiar checkerboard of the prairie farms. By 10:40 we were cruising around Vancouver harbor, delaying our arrival so that we would touch down at the scheduled 11 a.m.

Fred Hume was out with his gold chain and a Scottish pipe band, to greet Dr. D'Ailly, burgomaster of Amsterdam, who had made the return trip with us.

Viewing Fred's splendid trappings, and all the welcoming footers, Aussie journalist Stewart Cockburn murmured quietly: "Well, D'Ailly may be the burgomaster—but Hume is certainly the hamburgomaster!"

Home, as it were, in clock-time of 12 hours. It's incredible and it's wonderful, and it's the factor which ensures CPA's success on the new "midnight sun" route.

As of today, the line has more than 1,250 bookings for the polar flight, including 120 from Los Angeles, where another line flies the route via Winnipeg. In the short time since we've been home, half a dozen Victoria friends have told me (a) they'd made the flight, returning from Europe this way when the ships were tied up; or (b) had bookings for early flights, eastbound.

All of which is a tribute to the imagination and drive of CPA's young president, Grant McConachie.

McConachie has had to buck some strong odds, in building up his line to the world's seventh international service in point of route miles, which now total 36,000.

He was the first man in North America to order jet Comets, back in 1948. Insiders say he had to pound tables pretty heavily in Montreal to persuade the railroad men that there was enough business on international routes to justify the considerable expense.

McConachie won his point, but the Comets developed their "metal fatigue" and went back to the research department. (They are now perfecting the Mark IV and it's said to be a winner.) There was the tragedy at Karachi.

The other day, just as CPA was clewing up arrangements to fly into Argentina, somebody shied a "pineapple" at Juan Peron and the contract blew up. Another tough break, indicating several months' delay.

McConachie has never been able to persuade the Canadian cabinet that he's entitled to compete with TCA on the direct trans-Canada route, though it's obvious that this would sharpen up competition and give the traveler a better break. Ottawa relented sufficiently to permit him to go "over the top."

Perhaps the ball has started to bounce Grant's way. With the fine young team he's gathered around him—boys like Bryan Renwick (ex-Victorian), Barney Phillips and Ron Keith—McConachie is geared to do an ever-expanding job.

Aviation, after all, is an infant industry. We hope that the big fellow invites us when he inaugurates his "Round-the-world-in-one-hour" service!

ON THE TIMES

Pardon My Dentures

MY dentist and I are on very good terms. When I have trouble with my teeth, I make an appointment to see him. He goes over the offending molars, bicusps and incisors and fixes them up. I pay my bills with reasonable promptness and the excellent relations continue between us.

My trust in him rests largely on experience and the belief that he knows what he's doing when he moves into my mouth. And that leads me to think he is well informed on oral health and fluoridation. He has studied the question and done a fair amount of reading on it. From this background of study he tells me fluoridation under scientific administration will prevent a lot of dental decay in the teeth of young children.

The physicians I know also tell me that fluoridation, carried out properly, will not injure me or any of the older folk who would take an occasional drink of water from a system scientifically treated. Maybe I'm a little lacking in originality, but I'm inclined to accept the words of medical men on health. They've put a fair amount of study into the subject, too.

Since the per capita cost of fluoridation will be only a few cents a year, the economics of the process don't bother me too much.

I'll admit a reasonably deep ignorance of the way in which fluoridated water works its miracles to check dental caries. I possess none of that little knowledge which is a dangerous thing.

WEAKNESS OF DEBATE

But in the course of more years on a newspaper than I sometimes like to think about, I have learned something about debating. And from that experience, I have every sympathy for Dr. R. G. D. McNeely. The pathologist isn't interested in a challenge to debate fluoridation on a public platform.

The ideal debate, of course, might be desirable. The ideal debate would have opposing factions marshal completely accurate facts into a well-rounded argument to support a particular case. But in this world, it seems to me, no one should expect perfection—least of all in a debate.

A smart talker, with a facility for manufacturing facts or for picking up inadequately proved statements, can be pretty glib. He or she can present what passes for information in a single sentence which would require hours, probably days or weeks to disprove.

Dr. McNeely did a little of that disproofing at considerable expense in time on a few of the "facts" cited by the anti-fluoridation forces a short time ago. He wrote letters to reputable men and institutions who were represented as foes of fluoridation. His replies repudiated the anti-fluoridation stands attributed to them.

On a debating platform, Dr. McNeely would have no opportunity for immediate contact, say, with Dr. Joe Zilch of Quagmire, Fla., if anyone quoted Dr. Zilch as an opponent of fluoridation. Public platform debates don't last long enough to permit the exchange of correspondence between Victoria and Quagmire, Fla.

FACTS AND INVENTION

So an anti-fluoridation champion with a little inventiveness or access to a few equivocal statements on fluoridation, could pile up a great case. It might, in fact, be a mere bag of smoke, but during the course of the debate it could look a lot more solid.

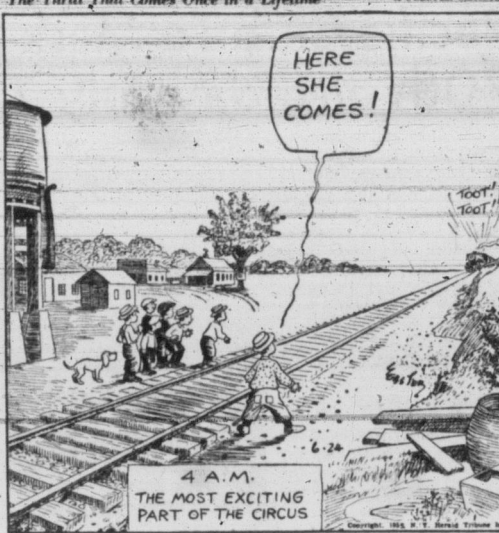

I've heard people argue that fluorine is a deadly poison and I believe it is when taken in sufficient quantities. I'm told, too, that vast quantities of table salt consumed by an individual at one sitting would kill a person. Beyond that I was taught at high school that water is composed of oxygen and hydrogen. Hydrogen, they told me, is highly inflammable. Oxygen is a gas which makes things burn faster and brighter.

By a certain type of logic not too far divorced from that of some arguments on the fluoridation question, it would appear a little risky to light a cigarette after a person had drunk a mixture of hydrogen and oxygen. A match applied to that concoction would blow a guy's head off, wouldn't it? The answer is no.

I'm less impressed with the physical poison aspect than I am by the argument which says fluoridation will sap my will and weaken my mind. But there's a catch in this claim too. The water isn't fluoridated yet. What's doing that now?

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

Flower Show Season Now; Worth Visiting

Summer on Vancouver Island brings a host of flower shows. For the visitor, ing gardener as well as the resident, there is much of interest to be seen. Gardeners from other parts of Canada will find many different kinds of plants and flowers (with names attached), some of which they might like to try for themselves.

The local gardeners who visit their own show, will be able to compare it with others which they may see in other parts of the Island. And there is always the chance of finding a plant not previously grown.

Apart from the spectator angle, flower shows offer the chance for friendly competition, the incentive to search for information.

With even one competitive entry made in a show, the home gardener begins to realize the concentrated effort which goes into the producing of such a display. The virtues of co-operation, patience and diplomacy which it engenders in all concerned are alone worth more than can be assessed!

Golf Unknown Scores Upset

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP)—Noreen Laing of Toronto Mississauga and Rae Milligan of Jasper Park, Alta., a couple of youthful golfers who have produced too much class for the veterans, will meet for the Ontario ladies' golf title today.

The 19-year-old Miss Laing, riding a steady putter, came up with one of the biggest upsets of the tournament in the semifinals Thursday when she eliminated defending champion Anne Sharpe of Lookout Point, 5 and 4.

Meanwhile Miss Milligan, a 21-year-old University of Alberta co-ed, powered her way to a 2 and 1 victory over Roma Neundorff of Toronto Ladies in the other semifinal.

Too many of us attend a flower show with the attitude "I have better flowers at home in my garden than I see here." Do we consider that perhaps those same flowers may have looked a lot better in their own garden?

The cutting, conditioning, transporting and the final setting up are all hazards which the exhibitor takes in the effort to make a showing.

Let all gardeners, visitors and residents alike, lend the support of their interest to the local flower shows, commencing with the Victoria Horticultural Society show in the Crystal Garden today and Saturday.

Island Berry Crop To Show Big Boost

Vancouver Island strawberry crop is expected to yield 52,000 crates of strawberries, an increase of 2,506 crates over last year, according to the B.C. department of agriculture.

The yield would have been still greater if some crops had not been damaged by aphids, a small sucking insect, agricultural officials said.

An increase yield of loganberries, cherries and grapes is also expected this year, they said.

Meanwhile Saanich growers are in need of hundreds of women and girl pickers to keep pace with the fast ripening strawberry crop. Growers said the berries this year are ripening faster than usual and within a week they looked forward to picking 1,500 crates each day. This would call for hundreds of additional workers, they said.

Women and girl pickers over 14 years of age are asked to register at the federal-provincial farm labor service at 602 Broughton.

RCAF Abandons Plane Search; 4 Feared Dead

RCAF search planes were returned to Sea Island base and the hunt for four men missing in a light plane since June 14 was called off Thursday night.

Two of the men, who are now presumed lost, are from Victoria.

Chris Langkilde-Lauesen, 41, 3119 Rutledge, and Harry Jelinek, 42, 1655 Pembroke, were part of a B.C. Forest Service survey party which left Ocean Falls in a light plane, headed for Kemano. Two Vancouver men, Norman Wheaton, 24, and pilot, Capt. Robert d'Easum, 25, completed the ill-fated party.

Six Pacific Western Airlines planes are slated to continue search operation over the rugged coast at least until the week-end. The missing craft was a PWA charter sea plane.

"It has happened that such people have been lost and have suddenly turned up," said RCAF search officials.

Economist Will Advise PM, Cabinet

OTTAWA (CP)—The cabinet for the first time will have an economic adviser of its own, a 36-year-old Quebec economist who has specialized in prices and federal-provincial relations.

He is Maurice Lamontagne, assistant deputy resources minister and former head of Laval University economic department. In 1950 he was a member of the MacQuarrie committee whose recommendations led to Canada's current anti-combines laws.

His appointment to the $11,000 post was announced by Prime Minister St. Laurent today. Though, technically, he will be adviser to the cabinet in the Privy Council office, in essence his main work, it was learned, will be to advise Mr. St. Laurent on various economic proposals brought before cabinet by cabinet ministers.

Mr. Lamontagne's new appointment is effective July 1. His present job is assistant deputy resources minister.

Mr. St. Laurent said in a statement that the large number of important economic questions requiring the attention of the government made the appointment of a specialist desirable, but gave no further details.

Usually, Mr. St. Laurent relies heavily on Trade Minister Howe to advise him on economic matters. There have been rumors that Mr. Howe, 69, may retire next fall but Mr. Howe has denied this.

Only 2 Canadian Children Show Polio After Salk Shots

In both cases, medical investigation revealed the infection was present before the vaccine was administered, he said.

RECEPTION PLANNED

Pacific Club To Mark 70th Birthday July 7

One of this coast's best-known and most popular clubs, the Pacific Club, Thursday, July 7, will mark its 70th anniversary.

It was founded in 1885 as the Victoria Club and re-incorporated under the present name in 1894.

On the anniversary, the president, Aubrey Jones, will hold a reception in the club for approximately 600 members and special guests from 5.30 to 7.30 p.m.

During the last near three-quarter century the club has had as members persons from widely scattered corners of the world, as well as some of the leading business and professional men of Victoria.

While three wars have drained the young manhood from the rolls, membership today stands at 598. One of the heroes of the First World War Sir Arthur Currie was a member, as have been other distinguished military personnel down through the years.

The club, high atop the Yarrow Buildings in mid-Victoria, gives a memorable view of the inner harbor.

The club burned in 1909 and was put back on its feet by 35 men who took out life memberships. Three of these "old originals" still survive as members, including W. C. Moresby, QC, of Victoria.

METER FINE HIKE DIES IN COUNCIL

$2.50 Minimum Levy Section
Deleted; Goes Back to Committee

A council move to start half-hour parking on Broad Street and increase the minimum fine for meter violations to $2.50 fell by the wayside Thursday when the by-law reached first reading.

An amendment to the Streets and Traffic By-law was passed but its teeth were pulled by motion of Alderman Robert Macmillan.

Council deleted the section dealing with parking and passed only those sections dealing with setting up of additional loading zones. The controversial section on parking was referred back to public works committee in the face of opposition by Ald. Millard Mooney.

During the debate, Ald. Macmillan charged that the city will suffer if parking regulations are made tougher. "People will be less inclined to come to town."

He gave that as the reason Simpson-Sears, as recently announced, plan to construct a shopping centre in Saanich's Lansdowne field rather than in downtown Victoria.

Ald. Mooney said it was the other way around. Poor parking supervision in downtown Victoria had "driven them out."

Ald. Austin Curtis had another idea. He said he had been told confidentially and reliably that the reason the store wishes to locate out of Victoria is due to shopping hour requirements.

He added that according to a recent survey, parking facilities in downtown Victoria are only 90 per cent used at peak times. Ald. Macmillan said "Public Works Committee knows it is nothing but a gimmick to raise more money and won't improve parking one iota."

He moved that the section of the by-law dealing with parking be deleted and Ald. Geoff Edgell supported his motion. The motion was lost. Then Ald. Macmillan moved that the section be returned to public works committee for further consideration and this time his motion passed. The section can be brought back in as an amendment to the by-law at a later date.

One reason council was willing to have the matter reconsidered was the fact that the

Cutter Sued By Father Of Polio Case

CHICAGO (AP).—A polio victim's father Thursday sued a manufacturer of Salk anti-polio vaccine for $400,000.

The suit was filed in circuit court by Edward Kadlubek, a grocer, against the Cutter Laboratories of Berkeley, Calif.

Kadlubek charges that Cutter was negligent in preparation of Salk vaccine which was given to his son, Edward Gene, 1½, April 16.

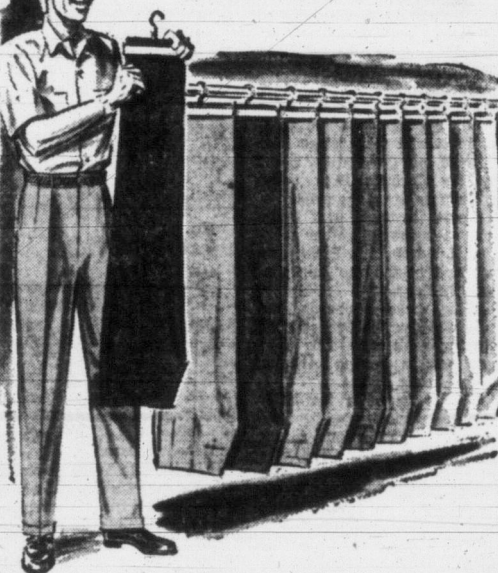

The child, the complaint says, came down with polio four days after he was inoculated.

Kadlubek said Edward Gene was paralyzed in his arms and legs and that, although he has recovered use of his arms, it is expected he never will have full use of his legs.

By BILL WALKER

Victoria won't be forgotten when the Willingdon Cup selections are made this year.

Not if Vic Painter, the city's representative to the B.C. Golf Association, has to use a sand wedge to put one or two points across the committee room table.

Busily compiling statistics this week, Vic has come up with some interesting figures that make it obvious that if one Victorian is selected two others will demand more than passing attention when the make-up of B.C. team is being determined.

A check of all scores of the Island's major tournaments this year reveals that there is but two strokes separating three men—Bob Fleming, Bill McColl and Laurie Kerr—in nine medal rounds.

Fleming Leads

Fleming, considered to have the inside berth on the basis of his past record, leads the threesome with a total of 655, or an average of 72.77 per 18 holes.

McColl, the major tournament winner this year (he holds the Island Open, the Cowichan Open and the Mid-Island and Zone 1 championships) and rated the best chance of upsetting Fleming, if that is to be done, is second with 656, an average of 72.88 per round.

Kerr, the city champion, and definitely with a chance for recognition for a cup position, has a total of 657, an average of 73 strokes.

The deciding factor facing the locals is undoubtedly the B.C. Closed tournament at Victoria Golf Club July 23 and 24.

This is the one major event remaining on the men's calendar, and a good showing by two or even all three city contenders could put the B.C. Association in a tricky lie. If any bullets are needed Painter will be ready to fire 'em, for he remembers all too well the time a few years ago he owned the best medal record in the province, but was left on the outside looking in.

Meanwhile Fleming is down in Portland for the Western Open, following which he takes his place alongside the greats and near-greats in the B.C. Open at Shaughnessy in Vancouver next week (Wednesday-Saturday).

Snead Coming

Latest word from B.C. Open officials in Vancouver is that Sam Snead has entered, but that new U.S. Open titlist, Jack Fleck, has withdrawn. In ladies' circles, Marg Todd has taken the lead in the city medal competition or inter-provincial team selection. On round is yet to be played.

Incidentally, only those who volunteered for the medal competition are eligible to be named to the B.C. unit, regardless of what has gone before.

Ken Brousseau's victory in the city junior championships at Colwood last week came as no surprise to pro Bill Court. The 16-year-old youngster, with a whole 18 months' experience behind him, is rated by Bill as a definite comer if he continues to apply himself in the future as he has done in the past.

Want a tip-off on what the fouring pros might do to Shaughnessy? Stan Leonard ripped off a 10-under-par 62 (33-29). Par is 73-72. The competitive course record is 63, held by Kenny Black. Leonard had nine birdies, one eagle, seven pars and one bogey in his spectacular round.

BUNKER BLASTS—It's invitation day at Colwood Saturday, meaning members can treat a guest. . . The Gorge club plans another clinic for beginners in the near future, applications now being accepted. . . Ted Bradshaw will be Gorge junior representative to the B.C. junior tournament in Vancouver next Monday. . . Junior tournament of champions is scheduled for Tuesday. . . Bob Hunt will be the Uplands representative.

Tom Lumsden Dies

WINNIPEG (CP).—Tom Lumsden, 25-year-old defensive end with Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, died in hospital early today.

Lumsden was taken to hospital Thursday after suffering a gall bladder attack while driving with his family near Beau-sejour, 30 miles east of here. Doctors ordered an immediate operation.

Camosun Club Tennis

Following is the draw for tonight's play in the Camosun Tennis Club championships: 11-12 L. Lashley and R. Smith vs. R. McKelvey and L. Shilling; L. Thomas and A. Lyle vs. R. Mahon and D. Chum-grenes.

Soon To Be a Local Scene

One week from today light harness racing opens at Sandown Park, Sidney, with 75 horses and leading drivers of the mainland scheduled to appear. A winner this year has been Archie Haeberle, 45-year-old farmer from Ladner, shown checking Perkusius. Meet runs six days, with afternoon racing July 1, 2 and 9, and evening racing July 4, 6 and 8.

'AMATEURISM' STILL OLYMPIC BODY'S BABY

PARIS (AP)—Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, said Thursday a new effort will be made to define "amateurism" in Olympic competition.

Brundage told a press conference he will ask the IOC to "make a series of interpretations" of amateurism in the hope that common ground can be reached.

Pils Down 'Bellies; Buchanan Gets Three

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP).—New Westminster Salmonbellies, wiling under the strain of playing two games in as many nights bowed 15-10 to Vancouver Pilseners in a senior intercity lacrosse league game here Thursday night.

Playing before 900 fans, Salmonbellies held their own with the Vancouver squad until the final period. The fishermen led 2-1 at the first break and 6-5 at half time.

Pils took a 10-9 lead in the third period and then outscored the Salmonbellies 5-1 in the fourth quarter.

Harry Buchanan, the league's leading point maker, was the sparkplug of the Vancouver attack finishing up with three goals and two assists.

Alex McKay also scored three times and counted one assist for Vancouver.

For New Westminster, Ivan Stewart topped the scoring with two goals and two assists while Jack Barclay scored twice and marked two assists.

Barclay also led the penalty division, drawing five minutes for fighting, five minutes for misconduct and a minor.

Barclay drew his fighting penalty in a tussle with Bobby Marsh of Pilseners who drew a two-minute penalty. In the time Barclay was off, Pilseners scored three times.

New Westminster drew a total of 22 minutes in penalties and Pilseners drew 16 minutes.

Goalie Harry Preston blocked 28 shots in the New Westminster slot while Ron Delmonico kicked out 23 shots.

Six golfers finished with 69s to tie for second. They are: Dr. Carey Middlecott, the 1955 masters champion from Klamath Falls, N.C.; young Gene Littler, former national amateur champion, Palm Springs, Calif.; Paul O'Leary of Bismarck, N.D.; Bob McKendrick of near-by Osoyoos, Ore. and Ralph Blomquist, Glendale, Calif.

Trade-Ats Score 13th Victory

Trade-Ats brushed aside Forsters' 124, Thursday night at Heywood Avenue Park to win their 13th game in 14 starts in the Senior "B" Men's Softball League.

Marc Cunningham scattered six hits for the victory, while Ben Price pounded out a home run and three singles for the Trade-Ats. Ray Bootland led the losers with a homer and a single.

ALL SWEEP SERIES

Those results—with each winner sweeping a three-game series—left Yankees out front by two games over White Sox in turn two ahead of Cleveland. Both Boston and Detroit are 10 games behind New York.

In the National, the first-place Brooklyn Dodgers swept three from Chicago Cubs by winning 7-4. Cubs, in second place since May 25, slipped one percentage point behind Milwaukee Braves, who trail Dodgers by 14 games.

St. Louis Cardinals beat Philadelphia 7-1 in the only other game scheduled, dropping Phils into sixth place behind the idle Cincinnati Redlegs.

Woodling, who Richards had hoped would give the Orioles a big bat but who hit only 221 in 47 games, now is batting .444 for Cleveland in six games.

Bob Feller tossed a four-hitter for his second victory.

Only one Washington runner reached second against Byrd, who had a 3-2 record in 14 games with Baltimore. White Sox got seven of their 11 hits off loser Camilo Pascual while dumping the Nats to their 13th defeat in 14 games.

Nellie Fox, whose hitting streak was stopped at 17 games the night before, doubled home the first two Chicago runs in the third.

TURLEY'S CONTROL GOOD—Turley, as wild as he is fast on most occasions, held off until the eighth inning before giving his lone walk. He retired the first 15 men he faced, fanning the first four to up his strikeout total to 106. Only Cleveland's Herb Score has more with 111. Bobby Shantz was the loser.

Patterson Scores Kayo—NEWCASTLE, N.B. (CP).—Floyd Patterson of Brooklyn stopped Yvon Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., Canadian light heavyweight champion, in the fifth round of their scheduled 10-round non-title bout Thursday night.

Durelle, nursing a hand injury and bleeding from a cut on the upper lip, survived the fifth round but did not come out for the sixth. He signalled he had enough, and referee Petey Scalzo of New York then stopped the bout.

WIMBLEDON, England (UP)—Budge Patty of Los Angeles, the tennis playboy who spends most of his time in Europe, reached the quarter finals of the Wimbledon tournament today by defeating Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., 6-1, 6-3, 6-4, 1-6, 6-4, in an all-American match.

In the second round of men's doubles, Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, O., and Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, America's top-ranked team, easily defeated Tony Pickard and Bobby Vio of England, 6-1, 6-1, 6-1.

George Druliner of Los Angeles and John Flieitz of Long Beach, Calif., also reached the third round of men's doubles with a 6-0, 6-2, 6-8, 6-1 victory over Jose Draper and Emilio Martinez of Spain.

There was a major upset in the second round of women's doubles, where top-seeded Doris Hart of Coral Gables, Fla., and Barbara Scofield Davidson of Milwaukee, Wis., were eliminated by unseeded Jennifer Middleton and Doreen Spiers of England, 6-4, 1-6, 6-2.

In the only other fourth round men's singles match of the program, eighth-seeded Sven Davidson of Sweden gained the quarter finals with a 4-6, 6-1, 7-5, 6-4 victory over Luis Ayala of Chile.

In a full-fledged grudge match Thursday Abe Segal of South Africa knocked fifth-seeded Rex Hartwig of Australia to the sidelines in the third round of the Wimbledon tennis championships.

The South African won in straight sets, 8-6, 6-4, 6-4, to advance along with such favorites as top-seeded Tony Trabert of Cincinnati and second-seeded Ken Rosewall of Australia.

Eighteen months ago a South African team, including Segal, toured Australia and instead of being matched against top-ranking Aussies had to face juniors and youngsters.

WILL BOXING NEVER LEARN?—As for Olson, he almost seemed to realize from the moment the bell rang that he was a boy on a man's errand. He looked pale and extremely uneasy and there was no light of battle in his eyes.

Within less than two hours a still dazed but much smarter Bobo was in the air on his way back home to San Francisco.

Strangely enough there is not the slightest feeling among any of the experts with whom we have since talked that Archie might do the same to Rocky Marciano if and when they meet. They give him a chance of lasting the route with the Rock at best. If Marciano should be no sharper than he was against Don Cockell recently, they can even see Archie outpointing him in a dull exhibition. But they can't imagine Archie or anyone else around today putting Rocky on the deck and keeping him there.

Even so, it was Robinson, not Maxin, who practically passed out in the 100-degree heat with two more rounds to go. Sugar was far ahead on points, but the physical exertion of tugging and hauling with the bigger man proved too much for him.

SOLARIUM FISHFEST NEARS

Derby Day A Month Away

With just a month to go before "D-Day" of the 10th annual Solarium Derby in Saanich Inlet on July 24, an intensified ticket-selling campaign will be launched Saturday by officials of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association.

The VSIAA and the Victoria Times are again co-sponsoring the Derby, the complete proceeds of which are turned over to the Queen Alexandra Solarium every year.

Officials decided Thursday night to let Victoria fishermen and just plain citizens have a look at the main inducement in this year's derby, a big shiny new car.

The top prize for ticket holders will be on view outside Eaton's store on Douglas Street all day Saturday. Association members will be on hand to take care of any Victorians who have not yet purchased a ticket.

Other prizes in the derby, including household appliances, boats, clothing, fishing gear and sports equipment will also go on display shortly.

In other business at the meeting of the Derby committees Thursday night satisfactory progress reports were heard by chairman Wes Fulton and the Association has every hope of topping the mark of $6,700 donated to the Solarium last year.

For those who haven't bought their one or more Derby tickets yet they may be obtained from any member of the VSIAA, the Times sports department, sporting goods stores and bookshops.

Remember, time is getting short. There's only a month to go.

Hastings in B.C. Meet—Charles Hastings won a berth in the championship singles event at the B.C. annual lawn bowling tournament in Vancouver in July by defeating George Pinkney in the club singles of the Victoria Lawn Bowling Club recently.

Archery Course—Victoria YMCA has added an archery course to the summer sports program for adults 20-35 years of age.

Registration will be held at Beacon Hill Park during July and August, with the course to cost $5 plus Y membership. If the venture is successful it will be made a part of the Y's yearly program.

FARMERS TO HOST CHEMAINUS SATURDAY

Farmer Construction and Chemainus Red Sox, the two top senior baseball teams on the Island, will renew their diamond rivalry in an exhibition double-header at Athletic Park Saturday at 2:30 and 7.

In the series for the Island championship last fall, Farmers edged out the Red Sox, two games to one. The Sox, with a 9-3 record this year, will have slugger Doug Brinham, of the Alberni Athletics' basketball team, along with Al Goldie and Joe Copp expected to take the mound chores. Farmers, undefeated in league play, and with only one exhibition loss this season, will have four top-notch hurlers to choose from—Paul Beck, Bill Garner, Don Donahue and Bill Prior.

City Near Crossroads In Match with Scots

The Coast League football future of Victoria City partially hangs in the balance at Vancouver Saturday. The city team faces St. Andrews in a contest that could go a long way towards deciding the fate of the local club.

Presently in fourth spot with the Scots, with each team having two games to play, City must beat St. Andrews out of last place in the league table to assure themselves of the right to renew their league franchise next season.

Reason is that the last-place team in the league is committed to play a relegation series with the top team of the Vancouver and District League for the one franchise open in the circuit at the conclusion of league play.

A victory for City would assure the locals of fourth place. A defeat would give Scots the inside track.

If City wins it will mark their final league game of the year. If they lose they have a game remaining with Firefighters, first-half champions. City's other scheduled competition of the year is in the Province Cup series, the locals having reached the semifinal round.

Team manager Tommy Restell said Thursday present plans do not call for entry in the Dominion Cup series.

Padres Boost PCL Lead

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

San Diego had more breathing space at the top of the Pacific Coast League Friday and the credit goes to Portland's Artie Wilson, an ex-Seasideite who turned on his former teammates. Wilson scooted home with the winning run in the bottom of the ninth Thursday night as the Beavers shaded Seattle, 3-2, to even their series at a win apiece. Portland's victory snapped a Seattle winning streak at 10 straight and dropped the Rainiers 1½ games behind the San Diego Padres, who beat Sacramento, 11-30.

Oakland broke a six-game losing streak by whipping Hollywood, 6-5, in a game featured by three home runs, and San Francisco clipped Los Angeles, 4-2.

Pony League Baseball

Cosmopolitans and Rotary will meet in a postponed Pony League baseball game at Carnarvon Park Saturday at 2.

New Cars To Show In Stock Car Program

New cars and rebuilt machines will be in evidence Saturday when the stock cars return to Western Speedway.

The two new racers will be owned by Ken Dobie and Jack Spalding. Dobie will enter a Ford V-8, while Spalding, prominent in big car circles, will have a fling at stock car racing with a GMC.

Top driver Dave Cooper will be back with a completely rebuilt car to replace the mangled body and chassis of the old one badly smashed in a tangle with Bill Temple. Jerry Sylvester will be driving with a new motor in his Vampire Special.

Doubtful starters are Billy Foster and Phil Goldie, whose cars were demolished in spectacular collisions at the last meet.

But those hale and hearty for the meet will be the last main event winner, Dick Varley; Dave Francis, Mike Newton, Phil Lambick and Bob Maw from Victoria, and Hank Neilson, Ray Pottinger, Hap Hackwood and Red Burke from up-Island.

Time trials start at 7:30.

O.C. CRICKET

LONDON (Reuters)—South Africa tumbled England out for 133 in its first innings on a fiery pitch and replied with 142 for five wickets to gain a lead of nine runs on the first day of the second cricket test match at Lord's.

South Africa was mainly indebted to fast bowler Peter Heine, who took five for 60 in his first test match, bowling for three hours in one of the best exhibitions of sustained bowling seen at Lord's.

Close-of-play scores in Britain Thursday:

England-133, South Africa-142 for 5 (second test at Lord's).
 Oxford University 238 and 42 for 2.
 Surrey 399.
 Nottinghamshire 389 for 8 declared.
 Lancashire 145 and 113 for 4.
 Gloucestershire 121 and 105, Hampshire 194 and 13 for 1.
 Warwickshire 269 and 80 for 3. Essex 199.
 Cambridge University 262, Worcester-shire 47 and 136. Cambridge University was by an innings and 78 runs.
 Middlesex 262 and 121 for 7. Leicester-shire 216.

Lake Hill Rink Wins

Mrs. Webster's Lake Hill rink defeated Mrs. Turner's Canadian Pacific rink Thursday at Beacon Hill greens to win the Simmons lawn bowling competition.

Lions Double Winners In L'il League Action

Esquimalt Lions fell in behind the one-hit pitching of Bill McCreadie Thursday night at Bullen Park to defeat Merchants, 10-1, and move into a first-place tie with Pirates in the second-half standings of the Esquimalt Little League.

McCreadie whiffed nine batters and was nicked for a solitary double by Robert Newman in the third inning.

In American Little League action Thursday night, Lions came from behind with three runs in the last of the fifth inning to edge Elks, 12-11, in a wild slugfest at Little League Park. Ahead, 7-3, at one time, Lions were behind, 11-9, when they staged their big rally.

Cec. Fletchers bounded back Thursday night after their 6-5 loss to Chinese Students on Wednesday and proved to be the best "mudders" as they bested Arrow Furniture 7-2 at Central Park.

Fletchers are now in sole possession of first place in the Senior A Men's Softball League. Arrows, who entered the game on an even keel with the winners, dropped to second, but they have a chance to regain the lead when they meet Victoria City tonight.

A well-rested Barry Jackson went out after his seventh victory of the year, which he accomplished, and he also increased his league lead in strikeouts when he whiffed 12 batters. Jackson allowed but five hits, and three of those came in the top of the eighth inning when Arrows scored their two runs.

A single by Len Scott and a pinch hit triple by Archie Sluggert accounted for Arrows' runs.

Fletchers scored enough runs in the second inning to win the game, scoring three on back-to-back doubles by George Hall and Jackson. Hall drove in one run, and Jackson accounted for the other two.

The winners went ahead 4-0 in the sixth when Fiori Goegan drew a walk, and was moved around on two singles. In the last of the eighth a run-producing single by Ken Gunter and a two-run single by Les Wilson wrapped up Fletchers' scoring.

Arrow Furniture—005 000 020—3 5 1
 Cec. Fletchers 030 001 034—3 7 1

Games Cancelled
 The scheduled Lower Island Senior Amateur Baseball game between Capitals and Eagles at Athletic Park Thursday night was cancelled because of rain, as was action in Babe Ruth baseball, senior women's softball and senior "B" lacrosse.

Maroons Win Again

Led by Carol Hayton with five goals, Maroons won their fifth straight game over Glids, 7-0, in the women's lacrosse league at Stevenson Park Thursday.

The other Maroon goals went to Pat Burnett and Joan Begon.

For Full Benefits of High Octane Gasoline you need Shell Premium with TCP

If certain engine deposits did not form inside your combustion chambers as a result of your daily, short-haul driving, any good high octane gasoline would do very well. But because this kind of driving increases the build-up of these deposits, you need a gasoline with a special kind of additive. The reason is simply this: As your engine warms up, these deposits warm up, too—glow red hot. And these glowing particles act like hot coals—ignite the gasoline mixture ahead of time... before the pistons reach proper firing position. This is called pre-firing and means that power works against you instead of for you. In addition, these same deposits have another power-wasting effect: They foul spark plugs, causing your engine to miss. Engineers will tell you there's nothing more wasteful of power and gasoline than pre-firing and spark plug "miss." But there is an answer—there's one high octane gasoline that gives you all the advantages of high octane without the power-crippling effects of these deposits—Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP*. TCP, the Shell-developed additive, fire-proofs the deposits so that they no longer cause pre-firing. No longer can they glow red hot and ignite the gasoline mixture. And TCP stops spark plug "miss," too. Your spark plugs do the job they are supposed to do. Start getting the full power built into your engine. Get Shell Premium with TCP. It's the most powerful gasoline your car can use!

SHELL
 Only Shell Premium Gasoline has both TCP and High Octane!

Lawyers Here Want More Judges Named

B.C. section of the Canadian Bar Association today recommended that an adopted person shall not be entitled to inherit from his natural parents or kindred.

This recommendation will be forwarded for consideration at the annual meeting of the Canadian Bar Association in Toronto, Sept. 1.

It was suggested the Adoption Act be rewritten to this effect.

In a report presented the convention under way here, committee chairman P. R. Brissenden, said idea of adoption was to have children of adopting parents "as if born to them in lawful wedlock."

"Further it is suggested that distribution of an adopted child's estate should go as if he were a lawful child of his adopting parents and not as at present partially to his natural family."

OUT OF KEEPING

With adoption becoming more and more prevalent and a recognized social policy, "it is out of keeping to preserve these old possibilities of inheritance," he said.

Also on matters of civil justice, it was resolved that the federal government enact legislation to enable garnishee of wages of government civil servants.

Said the resolution in part: "... it appears in some communities merchants have suffered hardships and loss by reason of giving on credit to persons in the service of the government of Canada, some of whom appear to be taking advantage of the fact that their wages and salaries are not attachable in the courts."

Fast appointment of another Appeal Court justice was also asked, and appointment of two more Supreme Court justices.

ONE APPOINTED

While there is legislation to provide for two, only one appeal judge has been appointed to date.

"It is well known that the trial lists are so heavy in the Supreme Court, that trials are so long delayed and that judges are so pressed it is becoming more and more difficult for them to give the time required for cases."

"Your committee therefore believes that the number of Supreme Court justices should be increased by two."

On matters of criminal justice, it was recommended that a section of the Canada Evidence Act be repealed to allow a witness not to be required to answer questions tending to show commission of previous offences.

JURY TRIAL

Also recommended were code amendments to restore to persons charged with being habitual criminals, or criminal sexual psychopaths, the right to have these matters determined by jury trial, and that these persons have charges preferred against them before mode of trial is elected.

As under common law "the general practice seems to be that trade unions are not legal entities," the industrial relations committee under J. Edwin Fades, Vancouver, (Workmen's Compensation Board chairman), urged that trade unions be set-up as an advantage to unions, management and public.

If this was done, liability of union members would be limited, the union could hold land, could sue in its own name, and members could not be charged with conspiracy, he said.

Properly laid, a thatched roof will last 15 to 25 years.

1,200 Retired B.C. Servants Get Bonuses Over 2 Years

Provincial Secretary, Wesley Black told B.C. Retired Civil Servants Association (Victoria branch) Thursday 1,200 retired government workers have been granted bonuses in the past two years.

For working civil servants, said Mr. Black, the government and the employee are making higher contributions to the superannuation fund, so larger pensions will be available to the workers when they retire.

He told the group the Superannuation Act is continually under review, "to make it more effective and just to all."

Branch president W. L. Llewellyn announced appointment of a committee comprising C. B. Peterson, W. L. Crofton and Ernest McGinnis, to draft

Bert Again Shows Amazing Fortitude

BY AB KENT

Wind, tide and a navigational misjudgment cost distance swimmer Bert Thomas what looked for a time like a cinch crossing of Juan de Fuca Strait Thursday.

His third attempt, lasting nine hours 10 minutes and 45 seconds, ended at 4:29.55 p.m. when he touched the prow of navigator John Veness' fishboat Margaret S. a few hundred yards off Church Point and less than a mile west of Race Rocks.

His second try, in which he lasted 10 hours 19 minutes and 40 seconds, saw him cover about 18 miles and get within nine miles of Port Angeles.

This time he swam about 15 miles directly and probably another four "treading water."

"That's the second time I thought I had her," Thomas complained as he prepared to climb aboard the Margaret S.

On June 4 the 260-pound Tacomian came within about eight miles of his goal—Ediz Hook before tide and wind made further effort useless.

"What's that strait got against me?" he shouted to accompanying boats after realizing he was being swept back toward Race Rocks rather than 85 degrees to the south east, the direction of Port Angeles.

The swimmer's course, a new one in strait swimming circles, lay through Race Passage in almost a direct line from Macaulay Point, Esquimalt, his starting point.

An ebb tide was scheduled to take him beyond Race Rocks to the southwest by about 1:30 p.m., then the flood was to pick him up and carry him toward Port Angeles.

Ahead of Schedule
But Thomas made such fantastic progress up to Race Rocks, covering the nine miles in 3½ hours, that he was about an hour ahead of schedule in shooting through the reefs.

Currents continued to carry him around Church Point and Beechey Head in the direction of Sooke Harbor. The flood did not begin until about 3 p.m., after strong winds churned the Strait into an acreage of troughs and white caps.

Thomas' best position was attained about 1 p.m., when he was only a mile off course, and within an estimated six miles of the Washington coast directly south of Beechey Head.

Ediz Hook lay no closer than about 10 miles at any point in the swim.

Pushed Toward Island
Wind and the strengthening flood tide pushed Thomas back in shore toward Vancouver Island and the Race. If he had been able to cross beyond the international boundary, only about one mile beyond his best position, the flood may have carried him to the Hook.

Experts say the flood tide forks at about the boundary line, one arm surging through the reefs at Race Passage, the other sweeping past Ediz Hook.

The swimmer was once five miles southwest by west of Race Rocks. In three hours he was back to 2½ miles from the lighthouse. Thomas was getting water dashed over his head continually, and often he would disappear from view of accompanying boats.

At 4:21 handler Ove Witt called: "We're not going anywhere, Bert."

Thomas asked for his third feeding of orange juice and dextrose. The other members of the official party including Sharon Lee and sponsor Earl Irwin, each tried to talk the determined swimmer out of the water.

"Get out in good time and be in good shape for the next one," Irwin told him.

Tired of 'Next One'
"The next one! I'm getting tired of the next one. I'm fed up with the whole thing," Thomas replied.

But he refused to get out. "I'm not tired," he said. A few minutes later Ove tried again: "Come on in Bert."

"I'm thinking it over now," he said, and then touched the Margaret S.

Offered a ladder to crawl over the fish boat's side, the swimmer said "I'll get out by myself," resting on a fender hung outside. Then:

"It's just that I'm disgusted. That's the second time I thought I had her."

Someone called from another boat: "Are you going to try it again Bert?"

"That's a silly question," Mrs. Thomas replied.

NARCISSUS QUEEN PRANCES ON FISGARD

Honolulu Dancer's Wonderful Wiggle Wows

BY TONY DICKASON

There's something about a sumptuous 10-course Chinese meal followed by a graceful barefoot hula dance that does something for the casual male.

This was the experience Thursday when members of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce here were hosts to a 45-member Chinese Chamber of Commerce group from Honolulu.

After thoughtfully picking over orange peel duck, bamboo sprouts, pigeon and chicken, plus unpronounceable what-nots, we watched Honolulu's narcissus queen, slim-waisted raven-haired Carolyn Tong wiggle wonderfully in a roped-off area on Fisgard Street.

Oriental wolf-calls were abundant from the audience of some 600.

The visiting group is on a goodwill visit to this continent and already visited Portland and Seattle. They leave here for Vancouver and San Francisco Saturday under tour leader Given Tang, a gentleman much in evidence during festivities in an open-necked Hawaiian motif shirt.

HEAPING FEED
Approximately 125 persons from the Chinese community, including visitors, were present for a heaping feed at Don Mee Cafe where course piled on course. Eyes eventually assumed that strange baffled look of the completely satiated.

Toasts were innumerable. Not only were the visitors toasted, but also each course.

"The food is insulted unless this is done," said a rotund gentleman on our right, a member of the brave crew who ate everything.

The visitors are the top businessmen of the 35,000 Chinese of Honolulu. Chairman of the Chinese chamber here, George Joe, extended the official welcome, in Chinese, with the now-and-again English word thrown in.

General advisor of the tour, Ernie Albright, sales and traffic manager for Pan American Airways, Pacific region, stated emphatically, "food here is better than in Portland or Seattle."

He sponsored, of all things, a Japanese tea house game at the table and as a result festivities were soon in an uproar. He won, of course.

After the meal, there was gaiety on the street—singing, Chinese music and dances, intricate performances by the Chinese Girls' Drill Team, the Lion's Dance by local performers and, of course, Carolyn. Surely nothing like it has ever been witnessed by Victoria's staid streets before.

MOST BEAUTIFUL

The University of Hawaii freshman... "I'll be a sophomore next year..." has been described as the most beautiful Chinese girl in the world. No one argued the point in our presence.

Despite drizzling rain, she danced, first on a green that, then on the cold street itself, a large white lei around her slim neck and long red "grass" skirt waving to seductive music. She sang as she danced, in a low throaty voice.

It was a rewarding evening.

SWIRLING TIDE WATER which beat Bert Thomas in his third attempt at crossing Strait of Juan de Fuca is shown in this dramatic picture by Times photographer Bill Halkett, taken just before court-ageous swimmer decided to quit. He was being swept back toward Race Rocks in vicious currents, and was far off course.

MAYOR'S VETO

30 days the Municipal Act declares a mayoral veto can stay in effect. Council can then overrule the veto.

LETTERS OPPOSED

The fluoridation matter came up first. There were letters to council from the Fluoridation Investigation Society, read by president Mrs. M. E. Pickell and there was a letter from citizen F. H. Partridge.

Mrs. Pickell called the step an invasion of the liberty of the subject—fundamentally wrong and "immoral." Mr. Partridge said "leave it to the health authorities."

The mayor said, "Nonsense—I am liable to veto it," when Ald. Mooney asked that a recent recommendation of the Union Board of Health for immediate fluoridation be adopted. And he objected to the alderman's remarks, "Maybe we're more progressive here (than the mayors' convention)."

AMENDMENT MOVED

Ald. Austin Curtis moved an amendment to table the question until the mayors' group filed its decisions with the city. Ald. Robert Macmillan said, "We're not trying to foist anything on the public." He said council was going by the recommendations of medical opinion: "I don't think the federation of mayors is qualified, they are not medical people... we've had the facts placed before us... let's toss it out or put it in."

"Doctors for years have fooled themselves; don't you be fooled. Why try to pretend you know something you don't know?" declared the mayor.

The mayor recalled that during the "Black Death" in England doctors wore pointed masks for "protection."

The amendment passed council, with exception of Ald. Mooney. "I'll have to oppose the amendment. We have competent medical advice. I can't see why we should wait."

The Royal Commission on Forestry headed by Chief Justice Gordon Sloan opened in Kamloops this morning after completing hearings at Penticton Wednesday. A field inspection of timber in the Kelowna area was made Thursday.

Hard Liquor Demanded By Cafe Owners

'Discrimination By Government'

B.C. government today was charged with "rank discrimination" in not issuing dining lounge licences, for the sale of hard liquor with meals, to restaurants.

A delegation from the B.C. division of the Canadian Restaurant Association met the cabinet to demand dining-lounge licences for restaurants offering "facilities and food comparable to those of hotel dining rooms considered suitable" for such licences.

The group's brief said the government's method of issuing licences now is "even more disturbing and potentially dangerous to the restaurant industry," than their original action, in granting licences to established leading hotels.

"Hotels with no previous experience in the service of food to the public—not even through a coffee shop—have made heavy investments in elaborate dining-room facilities, in direct competition with long-established restaurants," said the brief.

QUICK LICENCE
"Section 34 (a) of the 1953 Liquor Act... provides for licences to dining lounges which have been in business for 'at least one year.' This appears to imply a standard for the issuance of such licences—but the hotels referred to that have established brand new dining room facilities, have received dining lounge licences immediately," the brief charged.

The restaurant dining rooms said they were selling food at prices at which the ordinary restaurant cannot compete "to lure trade, so that the profitable sales of hard liquor by the glass may be enjoyed."

The brief also criticized the government for what it called its "equally puzzling" handling of the clubs. The brief said privately-owned clubs had "openly flouted at least the spirit of the law for years, operating practically as public bars, with generally a very flimsy membership qualification."

"But in spite of the much-criticized hotel beer parlor conditions and the disregard for the law on the part of the privately-owned clubs, those two forms of establishment have been given practically a joint monopoly on dining lounge and lounge licences," the brief said.

Falling Tree Injures Logger At Metchoshin

A young Metchoshin feller received a fractured right arm and facial abrasions today in a logging accident near Matneson Lake in the Rocky Point area.

St. Joseph's hospital authorities said Tony Lisle, about 16½ years old, was in good condition.

RCMP said the young logger is employed as a feller by Jack Fisher, Glen Lake.

While working near Matneson Lake at about 8:50 a.m., he felled a tree which struck a snag. The tree bounced when it hit the ground, striking Lisle on the right side.

They said the injured man had been employed by Fisher for about two weeks.

Langford ambulance rushed him to hospital.

Porter Appointed To Publicity Job

Cy Porter, secretary of Chamber of Commerce group committees for the past 2½ years, will leave the chamber at the end of this month to become assistant to George L. Warren, commissioner for Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau and secretary of the Victoria Automobile Club.

The change was announced today at a chamber directors' meeting.

Hector Crombie will continue as managing secretary of the chamber.

Meat Inspection Move Delayed By City Council

A new by-law, which would set inspection centres set up to handle all fresh meat coming into the city from the surrounding rural area, will not be immediately considered by city council.

Ald. Austin Curtis Thursday told council to take its time on a Union Board of Health recommendation for a by-law.

When the matter was discussed by the health board it was felt the provincial government would set up the necessary inspection centres. Later information revealed the city would have to bear the expense.

Ald. Curtis said a booklet is being prepared by the province which will outline provincial participation in such a scheme. Council decided to table the issue until all the facts are known.

James Thomas Bolger, Mac's Auto Court, was fined a total of $50 or 10 days in jail when he pleaded guilty in city police court today to three traffic charges.

He was charged with driving June 23 while his licence was suspended, failing to transfer ownership of car and failing to stop for a stop sign.

CHAMBER SEEKS ABOLITION OF GARNISHEE EXEMPTIONS

Victoria Chamber of Commerce directors today gave unanimous approval to a resolution calling on the federal government to enact legislation which will enable firms to garnishee wages of federal civil servants and armed service personnel.

At present these persons alone are exempt from the province's Attachment of Debts Act.

The resolution, put forward by the retail merchants group, is in line with a campaign launched recently by the Credit Grantors' Association of Victoria.

All Provinces Approached For Amalgamation Advice

Deputy ministers of municipal affairs in each of the 10 provinces have been approached with regard to making an amalgamation survey of Greater Victoria.

This was revealed today by Forrest L. Shaw, chairman of a joint committee of the Victoria senior and junior chambers of commerce, arranging for a comprehensive survey of the feasibility and means for bringing all municipalities under one central government.

Mr. Shaw told directors of the senior chamber today his committee also has written all chambers of commerce and boards of trade and a number of professional survey firms.

From replies received, Mr. Shaw said the committee will select an individual or firm to do the job.

WANT EXPERIENCE
"We want someone with wide municipal experience and experience in writing proper reports. There are a number of outstanding individuals who are available to undertake this job, but we are particularly anxious to select someone with a background which will assure confidence of the public."

He said next job of the committee would be to select a person from those available.

"There's a matter of cost to be discussed with these people and also time. We want it done within a reasonable period."

Lawyers Elect R. A. Wootton Vice-President

R. A. Wootton, Victoria, was re-elected vice-president of the B.C. section, Canadian Bar Association, at the convention which ends here today.

Named to the association council were J. A. Bourne, Vancouver, Douglas McKay Brown, Q.C. Vancouver, F. L. Farris, Q.C. Vancouver, F. Craig Munroe, New Westminster, and David Williams, Duncan.

The 100 lawyers from throughout B.C. approved a motion by E. E. Pearman, Victoria, that an invitation be extended the Canadian Bar Association to hold its mid-winter meeting here next year.

Premier's Intervention Also Asked

Attempts to block a Roman Catholic procession to Royal Athletic Park Sunday in connection with the Seventh Diocesan Eucharistic Congress of Victoria Diocese were revealed today.

Dr. J. B. Rowell, pastor of Central Baptist Church here, who is considered one of the top leaders of the Protestant League, an anti-Catholic organization, called for Catholics to confine their religious observances "to properties of the Roman Church."

He said a resolution to this effect, supported at the annual convention of Regular Baptist Churches of B.C. in Vancouver earlier this week, had been forwarded to the city council and to the provincial government.

COUNCIL APPROVES
(City council on Thursday gave approval to the Catholic procession and use of Athletic Park.)

The procession is scheduled as part of the day-long congress in which celebration of the Solemn Pontifical Mass will be featured at the park at 11 a.m. Celebrant will be the Most Reverend James M. Hill, D.D., Bishop of Victoria.

Dr. Rowell, who prepared the resolution for the Baptist party, said the parading of the Sacrament outside, the church should be prohibited because it is calculated to create disturbance in areas pre-eminently non-Romanist.

His resolution states further that the Mass and Most Blessed Sacrament is the "distinctive doctrine of the Roman Church," which formerly "burnt at the stake those who refused to accept the doctrine of the sacrifice of the mass."

It continues: "The Roman Church still places under anathema, or curse, those who will not believe and accept this doctrine," and "to parade the 'most blessed sacrament' through our streets constitutes a definite challenge to Protestants."

Following the open-air mass at 11, a clergy luncheon will be held at the Bishop's Palace for all diocesan and visiting clergy.

At 2:15 p.m. the procession will move from St. Andrew's Cathedral along Blanshard, Caledonia, Broad, and Green to Royal Athletic Park.

At 3 p.m. Pontifical Benediction will be held in the park, with Most Rev. J. P. Dougherty, D.D., Bishop of Yakima, Wash., preaching the sermon. Most Rev. William M. Duke, Archbishop of Vancouver, also will attend the ceremony.

An evening banquet will be held at Memorial Arena, when guest speaker will be Magistrate Thomas A. Dohm of Vancouver.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—In what year was Nanaimo incorporated and became a city? Who were the first trustees and aldermen? When was Prince Rupert incorporated as a city? In both cities, who were the first aldermen and school trustees?—A.B.M.

A.—Nanaimo was incorporated as a city Dec. 21, 1874. Prince Rupert was incorporated as a city in 1910, its first election being held in May of that year. Doubtless the city administrations of both places have extensive records of their councils and school boards. Your best plan probably is to write to the respective city clerks, who may be expected to reply promptly.

SHOPPING GUIDE

All Types of Local Fruits Now on Victoria's Markets
By PENNY SAVER

Local strawberries are on the market, and they're so big and luscious looking, and so sweet tasting, that I could make a whole meal just from these rosy berries. The boxes I saw were covered with cellophane, and the size and color of them was certainly appetizing. They're selling at 33 cents a box, or two boxes for 65 cents. The price will come down as the season progresses.

If you love gooseberry pie you'll jump at the chance to buy large juicy ones at a local market. English gooseberries are 30 cents a pound, and the local ones, slightly smaller, 20 cents a pound.

To put a finishing touch on any table, put a well-filled fruit bowl in the centre. Have plenty of other fruit near at hand though, 'cause the fruits are so appetizing and colorful that before you know it, the bowl will be empty. Beauty plums that are so good-tasting and healthful, are 39 cents a pound. Apricots, another fruit that is wonderful for lunches and snacks, are 23 cents a pound. Peaches are on the markets, too, at 27 cents for three. An ever-popular necessity for that fruit bowl is a bunch of grapes, which are selling at 50 cents a pound.

Bing cherries have appeared, too, in deep, maroon-red, to tempt your palates. The price is 45 cents a pound. Sweet cantaloupe, which tastes so good with ice cream set into the scooped out centre, is selling at 20 cents each.

Away from fruits for a moment, and on to vegetables. I'll tell you the prices of the super fresh ones I saw. Small tomatoes, just right for salads or sandwiches, are two pounds for 25 cents. New potatoes are a necessary part of every summer meal, and they're now 35 cents for five pounds.

Jealous Person Feels Inferior

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

Jealousy can cause a lot of trouble not only for the jealous person but also for all who come in contact with him.

(Q)—"I am a girl of 11 and have a problem. I hope you can help me with it. There is a girl in our class who is an only child and she is always telling lies about me to my girl friends and making them mad at me. She is fairly bright and has average looks. Ever since I was told that I was to be put in the Special Progress Class, she has been very envious of me. She cheats on tests just to outshine me. Her mother babies her and tells other girls' mothers lies about her daughter's enemies. I think someone should try to help her. I am not the only one she does this to. I think I could help her if I understood her. Can you help me?"

(A)—The important thing to remember about any jealous person—and this girl certainly is jealous of you—is that he feels inferior to others and is trying to make himself feel equal if not superior to others by making trouble for them. Because this girl has been babyed by her mother, she doubtless has been given the idea that she is equal if not superior to everyone in the class.

When, however, she sees that this is not true, she tries to over-ride others and get ahead of them. She sees that you have more friends than she does and that is why she tries to make trouble with your friends, hoping to win them away from you to her.

In the same way, she is jealous because you do good enough work to be put in a section of the class above hers. So, she tries to cheat to be able to equal you if not to take your place.

If you are willing to make the effort, I am sure you can help this girl. First, be friendly with her and try to persuade your friends to let her do things with them. She doubtless craves friendship and hasn't had much of it. You can also help her better liked by pointing out—tactfully—certain things she does that people dislike. And praise her for what she does well. You could also study with her and help her to learn her lessons better so she would get better marks.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

'Tummy Muscles So Weak I Can't Even Do Exercise'

Q—"My abdominal muscles are so weak that I can only lift my legs about three inches from the floor and then can't hold them there at all. How then, can I do the exercises? I want to reduce my abdomen."

A—"You will have to strengthen the abdominal muscles before you can do many of the exercises. Start with a few easy ones like this. Lie on the floor on your back. Bend your left knee as you slide your left foot along the floor until the left foot is close to the hips. Slide foot back to place as you straighten left knee. Do the same thing with the right leg. Continue, alternating left and right.

Perhaps you can do this one: Lie on your back with your legs straight and your arms resting on the floor. Bend your left knee up close to your abdomen. Straighten leg, kicking toward ceiling. Lower leg to the floor. At first you may have to allow your leg to flop back to the floor. Later on you will be able to lower it slowly to the floor. Do the same thing with your right and continue, alternating left and right.

Q—"Why is the habit of drinking cold water good for overcoming constipation?"

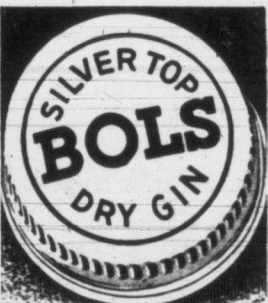

A—"Because it stimulates the peristaltic action (wave-like motion) in the intestines."

Q—"How can I remove hair from my upper lip? It is fine fuzz but is dark and embarrasses me."

A—"You can have it permanently removed by electrolysis. For temporary removal you can use cosmetic wax or one of the new products planned for this condition. Perhaps all you will need to do is to bleach it periodically with peroxide."

Q—"What makes women suddenly begin having hair on their faces at middle age or a little later?"

A—"A change in the body in the glandular and hormone set-up usually."

Ottawa Movies To Stress New Film Concepts

Impressario Aims To Make People Think

OTTAWA (CP)—Ukrainian-born Nicholas Philipowich-Kairez is starting a new film company in Ottawa.

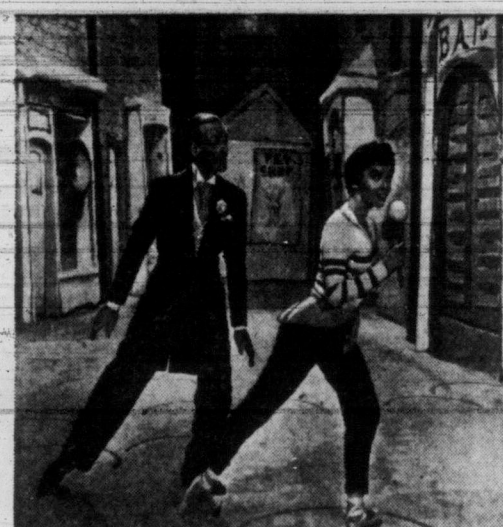

He is the head of an organization, not yet incorporated, that is known as the Screen of Truth and Liberty. It plans to start turning out short biographical films of prominent Canadians and Americans here in the near future. If all goes well it will later expand to include feature-length films.

The 47-year-old writer-director-actor who got his basic training at the Musical Theatrical Institute of Kharkov stresses that he wants no politics in his films. They would emphasize freedom and truth and aim at intellectual stimulation.

"I don't want to just hypnotize people. I want to make them think," he said in an interview. The story, he feels, as the thing.

"If a film excites its audience it should not be just for the sake of exciting them but because excitement is a part of the story."

With Mr. Kairez in the venture is Fred C. Leavens, owner of three Ottawa theatres. Mr. Kairez says he already has agreements with 30 Canadian theatres to show his pictures.

QUITE A TIME is being had by Fred Astaire and Leslie Caron, what with dancing and double-dip ice cream cones in this impressionistic setting for one of the numbers in "Daddy Long Legs." The musical romance in Cinemascope, now at the Royal Theatre, also stars Terry Moore and Thelma Ritter.

Rank Gives His Film Empire To Britain and to Charity

LONDON (AP)—J. Arthur Rank announced Thursday that he has put his multi-million-dollar movie empire under the control of a trust to keep it in British hands. Profits of the trust will go to charity.

United States motion picture interests recently have been reported buying shares in the Rank organization, largest movie combine outside Hollywood. Valued at $51,000,000, it includes the Odeon and the Gaumont movie-house chains and associated film producing and distributing companies.

Rank, 66, will continue to serve as chairman of the controlling company of the group.

Henry Aldrich Gets Hostile

NEWARK, N.J. (UP)—Ezra Stone, who gained fame as radio's squeaky-voiced Henry Aldrich, appears in court today to answer charges of refusing to let a conductor punch his train ticket because "the train was 45 minutes late."

Stone was arrested last Friday in Pennsylvania Station, Newark, as he and his wife, Sara, returned from a New York business trip. They were freed in $50 bail after the incident. "The train was 45 minutes late," he said. "I merely told the conductor he could not punch my ticket 45 minutes late."

Nanaimo Chamber Promises To Support Island By-Law

NANAIMO—Chamber of Commerce accepted an invitation from Mayor George Muir Thursday night to back the city council in the purchase of Newcastle Island.

Purchase price is $150,000, and on July 7 ratepayers will vote on a by-law authorizing the expenditure.

"In past years the chamber has not been too helpful with matters vital to this city through assisting your councilmen," the mayor said.

"but the purchase of this 752-acre playground at our very doorstep is most important to the future progress of this city."

Chamber president Jack Hodson promised aid in publicizing reasons for the purchase, and arranged for a meeting next Thursday between the chamber and council members.

Harry Duker, Vancouver, guest speaker at the meeting, quoted government statistics to prove that most visiting tourists come to British Columbia on advice of friends who had been previous visitors.

During 1954 the passengers in 278,000 cars that entered the province spent $70,000,000 during their visit, he said.

Young Alberni Alpinist Wins Medal for Heroism

KENNETH ALGER

ULF BITTERLICH

Alpine climber Ulf Bitterlich of Alberni has been awarded the Royal Canadian Humane Association's prized silver medal for bravery for his outstanding example of heroism in the rescue of Charles E. Faulkner Jr., of Victoria, from the summit of Mount Arrowsmith last fall.

The silver medal topped the list of awards to Canadians for heroism made by the association at Hamilton, Ont., today. The medal is the 11th to be awarded since its inception 61 years ago.

VICTORIAN HONORED

One parchment certificate was awarded to Kenneth Alger, 3015 Earl Grey, Victoria, for rescuing Bennie Bouchard from drowning at the Victoria docks Jan. 14 of this year.

Certificates also were awarded to John Dirom, 13, and Howard Bell, 15, Herd Road, Duncan, for the rescue of Bill Davis from drowning in Somenos Lake May 25, 1953.

Bitterlich, a German immigrant who came to Canada shortly after the war, received the silver medal for the part he played in saving the life of Faulkner, who fractured a leg in a fall from the peak of Mount Arrowsmith.

Faulkner, an expert climber, fell and tumbled onto a treacherous ledge overlooking a sheer 200-foot precipice. He was unable to move because of his leg injury and lay only a few inches from the precipice.

NIGHT EXPLOIT

Bitterlich and a companion, Leo Lynn, climbed the 6,000-foot peak to assist the injured climber. It was night when the rescuers got there, 70-mile-an-hour winds whipped at them and rocks fell constantly from overhead. One hit Lynn on the head, injuring him fairly severely.

They treated the injured climber, but were forced to wait until daylight before attempting to move him with the assistance of a rescue party. Bitterlich worked strenuously for 45 hours on the rescue, playing the major part in the operations.

LONG EXPOSURE

Faulkner was finally taken down the mountain with great difficulty after spending two nights exposed to lashing winds and rain on the slopes of the peak. He is still recovering from his leg injury.

Bitterlich is regarded as one of Vancouver Island's best mountaineers. He took part in one other mountain rescue early last summer.

The climber has a brother and sister, Adolphe Bitterlich and Mrs. J. Kirnbauer, living in Victoria.

CERTIFICATE WINNERS
John Dirom, 13, left, and Howard Bell, 15, of Duncan, right, posed with Bill Davis, 12, who was saved by the two boys from drowning in Somenos Lake May 25, 1953. Rescuers were honored by Royal Canadian Humane Association.

N. Cowichan Berates Telephone Service

CHEMAINUS—North Cowichan council will send a strong letter of protest to the B.C. Telephone Company deploring the lack of telephone service to residents on Mount Sicker Road, one of the oldest populated areas in the district.

Council also is protest the antiquated equipment in Chemsinus, and the lack of systems serving the public in the district.

Ladysmith Trustees See End Of Double Shift In School

LADYSMITH—Trustee W. J. Seaton has reported to the district school board that good progress is being made with construction of the new Ladysmith Elementary School.

It is expected that the sheeting will be in place for the roof by the end of this month.

The board is hoping that at least five classrooms will be ready for the beginning of the next school term so that it will not be necessary to continue the swing shift which has been in effect for the past few months.

When the contract was let the contractor agreed to put on two shifts if this should prove necessary.

The board decided to keep in close touch with the construction and ask for the extra shift if the work appears to be falling behind schedule.

Trustee Seaton also reported that his building committee had made a final inspection of the new teacherage on Thetis Island and found the building satisfactory.

Cowichan Lumber Queen Contest Entry List Closing Saturday

DUNCAN—Saturday is closing date for the Cowichan Lumber Queen contest to be held in conjunction with the July 1 celebration here.

The winner will receive $100 and will be eligible to enter the Miss PNE contest in Vancouver.

It is understood from the committee in charge of the celebration that three girls are considering entering the contest.

Candidates must be single and between the ages of 17 and 22. Three judges will select the winner on the basis of beauty, charm, and personality, and she will be crowned at a ceremony to be held on the agricultural grounds, site of the celebration.

CROWDS EXPECTED

It is expected that a visiting queen will officiate.

The committee in charge is planning to entertain a good share of the Vancouver Island population July 1, and has arranged special fares with Vancouver Island Coach Lines good for the one day only.

Elks Club is organizing the morning parade, and the Canadian Legion has charge of arrangements for the evening dance. Boy Scouts have volunteered to assist the committee.

Loggers' sports will be the biggest attraction of the day's program, but an impressive list of entries has been received for a horse show on the grounds, to be arranged by Cowichan District Riding Club. Chairman is Dr. D. Lott, and Capt. K. Rutczynski will be judge.

The show is important for competitors, since it is one of those in which points can be gained for Canadian Horse Show Association championships.

The Story of the Dunsmuirs of Vancouver Island

by James Audain, Great-Grandson of Robert Dunsmuir

Every page of this new book is packed with colour and adventure... the excitement of the pioneering days on our own Vancouver Island... and the fabulous rise to success by the Dunsmuir family. This "rags to riches" story begins with Robert Dunsmuir's arrival on the Island, his years of toil; and reaches a climax with the discovery of a rich vein of coal that brings him the wealth and power he dreamed of. Mr. Audain has filled his story with personal anecdotes, letters and newspaper excerpts that make "From Coal Mine to Castle" an invaluable portrait of a once-great family... its faults, virtues, triumphs and tragedies.

Dulles Stings Soviets With Blunt Sarcasm

'Drop Force, End Subversion'
Molotov Advised at UN Session

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—State Secretary Dulles told Russia in blunt language today that the way to end the cold war is to stop using force against other countries and to stop supporting subversion.

In a stinging attack on communism, the American secretary declared:

"To bring the cold war to an end, seven points are not needed; this one is sufficient."

He spoke at the United Nations' 10th anniversary meeting, which Wednesday heard Russia's Foreign Minister Molotov propose a seven-point program to liquidate the cold war.

Dulles pulled no punches as he reviewed the role of communism in recent history. He agreed with Molotov that some problems had been settled recently, but said they would have been settled years earlier except for the Communists.

"We do not forget, we dare not forget, that some of those who now hail the recent developments are precisely those who for years sought to stop them."

Dulles strongly defended the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and other regional organizations which Molotov blamed for much of the trouble today. These organizations were based on the spirit of the UN charter, Dulles said, and it was Western strength, backed by these organizations, which had led to the solution of major problems.

Red Boasts Listed, Deflated

Then, in sarcastic language, he took up the problems which Molotov had listed in his speech as having been solved. The Korean War, Dulles said, was ended only after UN forces had repelled Communist aggression.

"It is indeed strange to hear this triumph of collective security now hailed as proof of the peace-loving character of the aggressor and its supporters. If they had had their way, we would today be commemorating the fifth anniversary of the demise of the United Nations."

Dulles said further:

The Indochina fighting was ended by agreement in Geneva, but only after the United States and other free countries had made it clear that continued fighting might call for collective action under the UN charter.

The Austrian treaty should have been signed years ago, but it was delayed while one of its occupying powers exploited Austria's economy for a decade.

Yugoslav-Soviet relations have been improved but they were bad in the first place only because Yugoslavia had broken away from "an alien yoke."

The recent Soviet overtures to West Germany and Japan came only after years of abuse and hostility from Russia.

Then Dulles listed five major problems, which he hinted he would like to see tackled by the "summit" meeting of the Big Four in Geneva next month. He did not list them specifically as agenda items, but he enumerated them as he led into his discussion of the Geneva talks.

They are:

1. Unification of Germany.
2. The problem of the eastern European satellites of Russia.
3. Communist China's use of force and threats of force in Korea, Indochina and Formosa.
4. Efforts of "international communism" to overthrow governments by conspiracy.
5. Disarmament.

Nuclear War Fear Good Omen—Pearson

SAN FRANCISCO (Reuters)—External Affairs Minister Pearson said today he sees hope in the increasing awareness of what would happen in a nuclear war.

Speaking before the 10th anniversary meeting of the United Nations, the Canadian minister said: "One of the most hopeful omens for the years ahead is the fact that we are becoming increasingly aware of where events may carry us in this nuclear age if we do not direct them away from war."

and toward a peace that is more than a symbol for propaganda or an uneasy interlude between fighting.

"The balance of terror has replaced the balance of power and that is not a comfortable or strong or permanent foundation for security. Peace rests uneasily on one, even less easily on two, hydrogen bombs. It is a tragedy of our first 10 years that it has found no better resting place."

Pearson said the free world will continue to seek in defensive regional arrangements the collective security they cannot now find in the United Nations.

"Our unity in this regard cannot be shaken by untrue and unwarranted allegations that such arrangements are aggressive and provocative," he said, adding that he hopes "the need to avoid collective nuclear suicide will help us to remove these fears and misunderstandings which now haunt and harry us."

Pearson said that in the past the "twisting and torturing" of the meaning of words has had a confusing and damaging effect on the United Nations.

"Too many good words of respectable parentage—democracy, coexistence, freedom, appeasement, human rights, popular, and above all, peace-loving—have been turned upside down and inside out and made to seem what they are not."

"What we need is a convention for the defence of peace-loving words against verbal aggression."

Veto Threat Halts Grant, Fluoridation

Mayor Wins Day; Issues Shelved

By PETE LOUDON

Victoria's mayor battered down council opposition Thursday, threatened twice to use a veto, and finally won delays on a grant to the Arts Centre and fluoridation of city water.

Council had previously approved the grant and had individually voiced a majority support for fluoridation.

The meeting brought a remark from Ald. Geoffrey Edgell, "It looks like we have a weak council and a strong mayor."

The mayor struck out at the public works chairman W. F. Pinfield and accused him of "bad judgment." He blasted Ald. H. Mooney, member of the Union Board of Health, which came out strongly for fluoridation.

"Why try to pretend you know something you don't know?" he asked the alderman. "You sometimes rush off with a wild idea—and you're young," cried the mayor.

Mayor Harrison chose the medical profession for delivery of his grand slam: "Doctors for years have fooled themselves." Council finally tabled the matter of fluoridation until the Federation of Mayors and Municipalities is approached for all information that can be provided on the pros and cons of the subject.

GRANT BOUNCED

The proposed $3,100 grant to Greater Victoria Arts Centre was bounced back to finance committee until the provincial government can be queried on whether it will undertake to grant the gallery an annual amount equal to operating costs. Both courses of action may result in delays as long as the

IN ALBERTA

Secret Land Swap Charged

DRUMHELLER, Alta. (CP)—Alberta Liberal leader J. Harper Prowse charged Thursday night that Premier Manning made a trade with the provincial government in which he received enough land to drill eight oil wells, rather than five, and leased his land to one of Alberta's major oil concerns.

Mr. Prowse made the charge in a campaign speech before about 250 persons attending a rally in support of Dr. John A. Barclay, Drumheller Liberal candidate. The hall was packed and many persons unable to find standing room were turned away.

"The trade with the government apparently was O.K." Mr. Prowse said. "The documents mention that it was made free of charge to the premier, but apparently the premier neglected to tell the people of Alberta about this when he related last week all about his farm home."

"The mineral rights were leased to Western Leaseholds Ltd. and how much he got for them, I really don't know."

The fireboat Island Comet greeted Kalakala's arrival with towering fountains of spray and Victoria Girls' Pipe Band performed on dockside.

THREE-LETTER WORDS PUZZLE CROSSWORDERS

Two three-letter words proved the worst sticklers for Times crossworders this week and no one came up with a correct solution.

Port Angeles Ferry Off to Cheery Start

Kalakala's First Run to Pt. Angeles Marked by Civic Ceremony, Hi-Jinks

Washington State ferry Kalakala, loaded with tourists, citizens of the town across the strait, Chamber of Commerce officials and civic dignitaries, glided into Victoria at 12.30 today to a tremendous civic welcome.

While over 1,000 Victorians clutched special "first-trip" tickets for the return voyage to Port Angeles, public works minister W. N. Chant greeted the American contingent and Mayor Claude Harrison presented a plaque to the ship's master, Capt. A. K. Eikum.

They were Linda Lee Britton, 5, and Charles Driple, 6. Hi-jinks slated for the voyage back to Port Angeles included the costumed appearance of courageous swimmer Bert Thomas, who took the part of Old Man Juan de Fuca, and Noni Pearson, Miss Victoria, who was garbed as Neptune's daughter.

The program called for tea and crumpets to be served on the voyage to the music of Victoria's Homeowners and the Victoria Girls' Pipe Band.

The ceremony was arranged in honor of Washington State Ferry Company's action in replacing the Black Ball ferry which discontinued operations from Victoria a month ago.

The Kalakala and the CPR ferry will share the task of bringing tourists to this area throughout the summer.

H. G. Swenson, WSF administrative assistant, said the firm is also inaugurating a scenic circuit which will include the San Juan Islands, Victoria and the Olympic Peninsula in one trip on a single ticket with fares of $4 for driver and passengers and $10 for cars.

Kalakala arrived here Thursday night from Seattle.

Officer Shot In Vancouver Police Station

Superintendent Says Detective Tried Suicide

VANCOUVER—Emergency surgery to remove a bullet an inch from his heart was ordered for Det. Sgt. Len Cuthbert in Vancouver General Hospital this afternoon.

VANCOUVER (CP)—The former head of the Vancouver police gambling squad was critically wounded today in police headquarters today and Superintendent Harry Whelan said Detective Sergeant Len Cuthbert turned the gun on himself.

Cuthbert, who was recently transferred to the detective office, left his office at 8:15 a.m. and entered a small office in the parade room. Seconds later a shot was heard.

Police officers found Cuthbert on the floor, his revolver beside him.

NEAR CHIEF'S OFFICE

The incident occurred two doors from Police Chief Walter Mulligan's office.

Cuthbert shot himself 45 minutes after an interview with Whelan.

"I had an interview with Cuthbert from about 7:10 to 7:30," Whelan said. "Shortly after that he tried to take a bridge-ender."

"He told me 'I'm sorry I missed my heart.'"

Whelan declined to say what was said in the interview with Cuthbert.

ON VERGE OF BREAKDOWN

Chief Mulligan said Cuthbert "has been in terrible condition the last few weeks."

"He has seemed to be on the verge of a nervous breakdown. However, he has seemed a little better the last couple of days."

Cuthbert, 52, is married and has three children.

The incident occurred only hours after the Vancouver police commission met twice in secret session to discuss administration of the police force in the wake of recent criticism.

There were unconfirmed reports that top-level changes in administration would be made.

Cuthbert was one of a number of senior officers named in a recent issue of the Toronto tabloid Flash criticising the department.

Police Chief Walter Mulligan on Thursday filed a writ of libel against the weekly tabloid, seeking unstated damages.

CAN JUAN DE FUCA BE SWUM?

Boatman Offers New Theory On Tidal Effects in Strait

A man who drifted back and forth across the Strait of Juan de Fuca for two days and three nights in an open boat believes he has the answer for a successful swim.

Harold Phillips, 39, one of four men who in 1946 drifted in a broken-down power boat, today offered what he is "firmly convinced" is a solution.

Phillips' plan stems from his experience in 1946. He found that a "free object" such as the boat in which they drifted charted its own course almost in reverse to what has been employed to date by swimmers.

In example, Phillips said: "One night at about 8 we were about a mile off shore near Victoria. We drifted in a semi-circular course toward Whidbey Island on the flood tide. On the ebb tide we were swept down the Washington coast to what I would say was about a mile off Ediz Hook."

Phillips' theory is, that the start should be made from the Victoria waterfront with three hours of flood tide still to go. This, he said, will sweep a swimmer about 12 miles almost due easterly to the neighborhood of Hein Bank.

At that point, when the tide turns, the full force of the ebb

Mountie Drug Squad Chief May Be Called To Replace Mulligan

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mayor Fred Hume of Vancouver said today Police Chief Walter Mulligan has not been suspended.

Asked in an interview to comment on reports that Mr. Mulligan had temporarily been relieved of his position, the mayor said:

"This is not so at this time. We shall have a further statement to make within the next few days."

(The Vancouver Sun said it has learned a "wholesale shake-up of the city police department is being discussed" and that Police Chief Walter Mulligan may be suspended.)

Deputy Police Chief Gordon Ambrose and Superintendent Jack Horton of the criminal investigation branch may also be involved in the changes, the newspaper said.

RCMP AGREEABLE

(The Sun also said staff sergeant Harold F. Price, chief of the RCMP drug squad at Vancouver, may be appointed acting city chief constable.)

(The Sun added that it is reported the RCMP has agreed to loan Sgt. Price to the city to replace Chief Mulligan for a period of up to two years.)

Mayor Hume said the police commission, which met Thursday night in secret session with Attorney-General Robert Bonner, "discussed everything to do with the police department and suspensions was one of the topics."

Mr. Hume said that the commission will meet again.

NEW EVIDENCE

There is new evidence coming in every day from all sides.

"There will be a report to the public from the police commission within the next two days."

"We are looking for a way out to keep everybody happy and everything efficient. There are lots of good men on our department of whom we are very proud."

"The sooner it is settled the better. We want to find out if everything is above board at the police station. You can't keep shaking up the police department and have efficiency."

have promised the police commission I would not make any further statements."

SECRET SESSIONS

Two hush-hush police commission meetings were held Thursday—one with Attorney-General Bonner in attendance.

The discussion followed two developments:

1. The Senate narcotics investigating committee's criticism of law enforcement in Vancouver, contained in a report made public Thursday.

2. Chief Constable Walter Mulligan's writ of libel against the publishers of the Toronto Tabloid Flash.

The Senate committee report said vigorous law enforcement is the answer to Vancouver's drug addict problem.

Chief Mulligan declined to comment on the Senate criticism.

about and carry him back past Constance Bank. It will not send him to the American shore. Only by getting well down the Strait to Hein Bank can he get the advantage of the ebb tide carrying him toward Dungeness and Port Angeles.

Phillips did a trial of his tidal theory with Bert Thomas last Sunday. Though travelling slightly faster than a swimmer in a rowboat and throttled down power boat, they were within a mile and a half of Dungeness, flood will turn him completely in 7½ hours.

Phillips said that without phenomenal luck no one can ever make the crossing by going close to Race Rocks. The ebb tide there will shoot him westward up the Strait and the flood will turn him completely in 7½ hours.

Phillips' theory is, that the start should be made from the Victoria waterfront with three hours of flood tide still to go. This, he said, will sweep a swimmer about 12 miles almost due easterly to the neighborhood of Hein Bank.

A-G Hints Major Action Contemplated

Attorney-General Robert Bonner strongly indicated today major action will be taken within the next few days in Vancouver's explosive law enforcement situation.

The A-G deftly turned aside reporter's questions concerning his hasty meeting with Vancouver police commission Thursday night, but said he may issue a statement on Monday.

He said he was "most concerned," and when asked to state the object of his concern, replied: "Surely you don't have to ask me the obvious?"

"I am not at liberty to discuss anything concerning the meeting," Mr. Bonner said. He did not deny or confirm reports Chief Walter Mulligan and top police officials have been suspended.

Says Detective
Tried Suicide

VANCOUVER—Emergency surgery to remove a bullet an inch from his heart was ordered for Det. Sgt. Len Cuthbert in Vancouver General Hospital this afternoon.

VANCOUVER (CP)—The former head of the Vancouver police gambling squad was critically wounded today in police headquarters today and Superintendent Harry Whelan said Detective Sergeant Len Cuthbert turned the gun on himself.

Cuthbert, who was recently transferred to the detective office, left his office at 8:15 a.m. and entered a small office in the parade room. Seconds later a shot was heard.

Police officers found Cuthbert on the floor, his revolver beside him.

NEAR CHIEF'S OFFICE

The incident occurred two doors from Police Chief Walter Mulligan's office.

Cuthbert shot himself 45 minutes after an interview with Whelan.

"I had an interview with Cuthbert from about 7:30 to 7:40," Whelan said. "Shortly after that he tried to take a bridge-ender."

Premier Set To Prove
Debt Reduction ClaimWill Welcome Chartered Accountants
To Go Over Government's Accounts

VANCOUVER (CP)—Premier Bennett, returning from Ottawa unemployment talks, today challenged anyone who doesn't believe the provincial debt has been reduced to send teams of chartered accountants to Victoria and he would furnish the proof.

The premier was commenting on reports that his recently announced $14,785,000 debt reduction figure was reached by "juggling books."

He said the figure was computed on the same basis as did previous governments and all provincial governments in Canada.

"It happened while I was on the train and I'm not qualified to talk about it now. But the municipalities needn't worry—they'll get their money this year anyhow."

"The people of B.C. realize that machinery taxation is designed to help them by taking some of the school cost burden off homes, the backbone of the nation."

Mountie Drug Chief
May Replace Mulligan

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mayor Fred Hume of Vancouver said today Police Chief Walter Mulligan has not been suspended.

Asked in an interview to comment on reports that Mr. Mulligan had temporarily been relieved of his position, the mayor said:

"This is not so at this time. We shall have a further statement to make within the next few days."

(The Vancouver Sun said it has learned a "wholesale shake-up of the city police department is being discussed" and that Police Chief Walter Mulligan may be suspended.)

(Deputy Police Chief Gordon Ambrose and Superintendent Jack Horton of the criminal investigation branch may also be involved in the changes, the newspaper said.)

RCMP AGREEABLE

(The Sun also said staff sergeant Harold F. Price, chief of the RCMP drug squad at Vancouver, may be appointed acting city chief constable.)

(The Sun added that it is reported the RCMP has agreed to loan Sgt. Price to the city to replace Chief Mulligan for a period of up to two years.)

Mayor Hume said the police commission, which met Thursday night in secret session with Attorney-General Robert Bonner, "discussed everything to do with the police department and suspensions was one of the topics." Mr. Hume said that the commission will meet again.

There is new evidence coming in every day from all sides. "There will be a report to the (Continued on Page 25)

A-G Hints
Major Action
Contemplated

Attorney-General Robert Bonner strongly indicated today major action will be taken within the next few days in Vancouver's explosive law enforcement situation.

The A-G deftly turned aside reporter's questions concerning his hasty meeting with Vancouver police commission Thursday night, but said he may issue a statement on Monday.

He said he was "most concerned," and when asked to state the object of his concern, replied: "Surely you don't have to ask me the obvious?"

"I am not at liberty to discuss anything concerning the meeting," Mr. Bonner said. He did not deny or confirm reports Chief Walter Mulligan and top police officials have been suspended.

Thomas Sets Sunday
For Third Swim Try

Thrice-defeated Bert Thomas is planning his next swim attempt on the Strait of Juan de Fuca Sunday.

He hopes to get away at 10 a.m. but says it will depend on weather.

If conditions are too rugged

New California Challenger

Another definite challenger for the Strait of Juan de Fuca announced his intentions today. He is Charles P. Day, 36, of Long Beach, Calif., who will make his attempt the latter part of August.

In a letter to The Times, he said he is confident he can stand the cold water, having done two 20-mile open ocean swims during the last winter as well as crossing Lake Mead, near Boulder Dam, and the Salton Sea. "As Juan de Fuca has never been conquered, it offers a tremendous challenge and I sincerely believe I can swim it," he said. His announcement increases to eight the number of persons slated definitely for attempts this summer, with at least three more in prospect.

Others are Father John Donegan of Toronto and Janice White of Toronto, scheduled to start Monday; Bert Capps of San Francisco, due July 18; Mrs. Ann Meraw of Vancouver, now in training for a July attempt; Bert Muir of Saanich, and of course Bert Thomas and Pat Russell, who both plan fresh attempts.
